U. S. Backs Sheffield in Mexican Stand

ENVOY GIVEN CONFIDENCE OF KELLOGG

Ambassador Assured Complete Support of Government, Declares Secretary

POLICY NOT CHANGED

Envoy to Southern Republic Will Call on President at White Pine Camp

(By United Press)
WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 25.—Ambassador James R. Sheffield, here on leave of absence from his post in Mexico City, has the full confidence of the administration and will not resign, Secretary of State Kellogg announced today, after a three-hour conference on Mexican affairs.

The ambassador is here on regular leave of absence, Kellogg emphasized, indicating his visit has no special significance.

Following issuance of this statement, Kellogg and Sheffield resumed their conference, which, it was indicated, might last the rest of the day. The religious dispute and the tangle over the oil and land laws are understood to be the chief topics discussed. Sheffield, it is believed, presented to Kellogg Mexico's reply to the last United States note asking more specific information on disputed points in the oil and land law discussion.

No change in the United States' policy of non-interference in domestic disputes in Mexico is contemplated, it is said.

Ambassador Sheffield, who will be in this country for 60 days, is expected to call on President Coolidge at White Pine camp, in a few days.

MEXICAN STRUGGLE MAY LAST FOR YEARS
MEXICO CITY, Aug. 25.—Direct efforts of the Mexican episcopate to seek peaceful settlement of the religious controversy apparently have ended today and the belief was strengthening that the struggle between church and state might continue for several years, until the Calles regime has been succeeded by some other.

The determination of the episcopate committee, consisting of Bishop Pascual Diaz and Archbishop Ruiz, both full-blooded Indians, to suspend direct efforts for peace, left the situation where it was when the churches were closed, almost a month ago, in protest against the religious law promulgated by President Calles. Despite various projects by law Catholics and others to present a reform bill or petition to congress, the day when the church would resume services was believed to be far distant.

It is well known here that the episcopate has the pope's authorization for continuation of the passive resistance program, which circumstances emphasized the possibility that the struggle may be of long duration.

The Calles administration still has about two years of office left, and, should it be continued in power after next election, the would be six years in which the church scarcely could hope to obtain congressional, judicial or administrative relief from the laws it finds so objectionable. There is, of course, the possibility of revolution, which might substitute for Calles an executive in sympathy with the church, or who might be more engrossed in the urgent business of making his position more secure than in enforcing the religious law.

MOTHER KILLS 4 BABES WITH AX

LAUREL, Miss., Aug. 25.—Mrs. Scott Allen, 35, mother of six, is held in jail today in connection with the slaying of four of her young children.

Mrs. Allen, seized with a religious frenzy yesterday, according to neighbors, killed the children, ranging in age from 4 months to 6 years, with an ax, "because the Holy Ghost told me to turn my children over to him."

A week ago, Mrs. Allen became affiliated with a religious sect, holding camp meetings here. She was designated to the mission field, neighbors said. What to do with her six children had puzzled the woman.

"Do what the Lord tell you to do," the leader of the meetings is said to have told the woman.

Held for 3 Murders

PAUL BARAN

MARIPOSA, Calif., Aug. 25.—After hearing six witnesses at the preliminary hearing of Paul Baran, 51, part owner of the Little Shyllocks mine, Justice W. A. Scott ordered that Baran be held to answer in superior court for the murders of Victor Shimonieff, Harry Clarke and Theodore Shastner.

Justice Scott ruled that Baran be arraigned before Superior Judge J. J. Trabucco next Friday. If it is agreeable with Judge Trabucco, Baran will go on trial about September 20.

Witnesses for the prosecution were Dr. G. L. McDaniels, autopsy surgeon, and Ed Watkins, sheriff of Merced county. Watkins told of Baran's admissions of the crimes and his claim that he shot in self-defense.

Shimonieff, Clarke and Shastner were found dead in a ravine near the Little Shyllocks mine, a week ago Monday. They were partners of Baran.

Hand Car on Track Wrecks Train; 2 Die

(By United Press)
PHOENIX, Ariz., Aug. 25.—A handcar left on the main line of the Santa Fe near Gallup, N. M., caused derailment early today of a work train of 22 cars, according to advices here.

Two persons were killed and eight others injured, it was reported.

The dead, according to the advices here, are J. B. Tucker, conductor, of Gallup, and Mrs. Joe Hansen, wife of the worktrain foreman.

The engine left the rails after striking the handcar, it was said, followed by the 22 "outfit cars," which piled in a heap.

Main line traffic was held up by the accident.

SOUTHLAND IS HIT BY TORRID WAVE

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 25.—Record high temperatures for the summer caused extreme discomfort among Southern California residents today.

It was the hottest day of the year, according to the weather bureau. The temperature in Los Angeles was 94 degrees at 10:30 a. m., and was climbing higher.

Similar intense heat was reported from other sections of the Southland, and residents sought relief at the beaches or indoors.

Humidity was slightly below normal, according to the weather man. Dry and torrid winds from a high pressure area off the plateau region to the east was "cooking" the air, it was explained, causing the heat wave.

The crest of the heat wave was reached shortly after 11 a. m., when the government thermometer registered 102 degrees.

At noon, the mercury had receded to 92 degrees, and the weather bureau predicted that cooler temperatures would prevail this evening and tomorrow.

No heat prostrations had been reported at noon.

Murderer Hangs; Head Is Severed

WINNIPEG, Man., Aug. 25.—Dan Prociw, convicted murderer of his sweetheart, Annie Cardno, was hanged at the provincial jail here today.

When the trap was sprung, Prociw's head was completely severed from his body.

The woman was killed after a quarrel, and Prociw was found dead as a result of bruises and also from having boiling water poured on her.

GERMAN EDITOR BURIED

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 25.—Funeral services were conducted here today for Otto Vogel, 70, editor of the California Staats-Zeitung. The rites were held at Rosedale cemetery chapel. Vogel was a leader in state German activities.

BRUSH FIRE PUT OUT

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 25.—A brush fire, which burned over an area of approximately 35 acres near Otis Vogel, 70, editor of the California Staats-Zeitung, in Griffith park, last night was extinguished early today without great loss.

LOST AIRMAN FOUND ALIVE ON MOUNTAIN

(By United Press)
BELLEFONTE, Pa., Aug. 25.—Lt. Cyrus Bettis, aviator, Pulitzer prize winner, who had been missing for more than 48 hours, today was alive in the Bellefonte hospital.

Lieutenant Bettis was brought here from Jack mountain, about 15 miles from here, where he had been found by two boys.

Bettis suffered a broken left leg, a crushed face and probable internal injuries. He also is suffering from shock and exposure, but hospital attaches here believe that he will recover.

The injured flyer said that he probably had been unconscious for some time after the crash, but on regaining his senses he started to crawl away from the wreckage of the ship.

He indicated that the plane was a "complete wreck," having struck the side of a mountain and piled up against a tree.

The automobile bearing Bettis arrived here shortly before 9 a. m., today.

It was said that, while the entire country sought word of the missing flyer, he was lying at the home of Mrs. Ralph Aurand, northwest of Lewistown.

Millard Aurand was one of the boys who found the missing flyer last night and took him to his home.

FLAMES RAGE IN LASSEN FORESTS

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 25.—Lassen county was a roaring furnace of forest fires today, with every able-bodied man who could be drafted into service on the fighting lines, according to word reaching the state board of forestry.

The worst of the fires in the history of the county yesterday raged uncontrolled and traveled with unbelievable speed, it was reported. The fires were reported still out of control today.

The first fire, that started in Rice canyon, and which swept over a 25-mile front into young timber owned by the Red River company, was being fought by a large corps of men, but was slowly eating into a valuable stand of timber. The other fire is near Milford.

The Milford fire is being fought by several hundred men and is in virgin timber. Several small farm houses were destroyed.

Man Held After Killing Pastor

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Aug. 25.—W. R. Jeffery was held by police here today, following the slaying last night of the Rev. Elmer Gillum, 40, Leffler's brother-in-law. Gillum was killed during a quarrel with Leffler, who charged the preacher with attempting to break up his home. Leffler surrendered to police and told them he struck his brother-in-law with an Indian club after Gillum reached for his hip pocket.

TWO AMERICAN GUNBOATS ORDERED TO NICARAGUA

(By United Press)
WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—The U. S. navy will dispatch two cruisers to Nicaragua to protect American lives and property, which may be endangered by the revolution in that country, it was learned at the state department today.

The state department requested the navy to send ships as "a precautionary measure," following receipt of reports on conditions in Nicaragua from consular agents at Bluefields and Corinto.

Rear Adm. Julian N. Latimer, in charge of a special service squadron, with headquarters at Balboa, Canal Zone, has been instructed to dispatch the ships to Nicaragua. This squadron, which is maintained at and around the Panama canal most of the time, includes the cruisers Rochester, flagship, and Cleveland and Denver, and the gunboats Galveston and Tulsa.

Dispatch of American warships was not unexpected, following the first reports of the Nicaraguan revolution late last week.

The marines on the ships and the sailors probably will not go inland, but will remain on the coast, ready to furnish refuge to Americans or to send an expedition to protect threatened American property.

Krishnamurti Arrives in New York and Expects To Visit California

(By United Press)
NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—Jedda Krishnamurti, hailed by thousands of followers as the voice of the "New Messiah," came to the United States today aboard the liner Majestic.

The slightly built, delicate featured native of India, just turning 30, wears the dress of modern times alternately with his native costume; is said to play golf and tennis and to have views on such modern topics as the League of Nations, the tariff and other matters of 20th century origin.

Krishnamurti, who has spent his life in study and meditation, is asserted by his followers as the vehicle selected by "The Great Nameless One" to send into the world his message.

His followers include many prominent persons, including the artist, James Montgomery Flagg, Mrs. J. Thesus Mundy and others scattered from New York to California.

Coming with a message from an authority older than the world, according to this group, his visit will be much like that of any visiting dignitary.

After a few days, Krishnamurti will go to Chicago, and later to California, there to remain for a time at the Theosophist colony in Ojai valley, not far from Los Angeles. Later he will come out of the valley to address his followers.

Fleet Due at San Pedro September 1

SAN PEDRO, Aug. 25.—The U. S. battle fleet is scheduled to arrive here from San Francisco, on September 1.

The fleet leaves the northern city next Sunday, and will engage in tactical maneuvers and full power runs enroute, according to radio advices from the flagship California.

NAME OF BOMBER REMAINS UNKNOWN

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Aug. 25.—The identity of the bomber who caused death and destruction in the Farmers' Savings bank today remained a mystery.

The best clue of detectives that the act was committed by a shell-shocked war veteran, was exploded this afternoon when the man, said to have been positively identified as the bomber, appeared at detective headquarters.

Percy Adams, an official of the bank, and other employees who saw the man, who yesterday demanded $2000 from the bank, previously had identified the photograph of a shell-shocked soldier in uniform as that of the man whose bomb resulted in his death and that of George C. Ortmann, a bank policeman.

Seven persons of the 40 injured in the blast remained today in hospitals. It is believed no more fatalities will result from the bombing.

Girl Faints As She Gazes At Pallid Corpse of Valentino at Undertaker's

FASCISTI GUARD BODY

Forty Persons Pass Coffin of Film Sheik Each Minute; Still They Come

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—George Ulman, manager for the late Rudolph Valentino, announced this afternoon that, after midnight tonight, the public will no longer be permitted to view the body of the dead actor. Ulman announced this change of plans after he had watched the crowds throng past the bier all day. He said he believed that today would give sufficient time for all sincere admirers of Valentino to pay their respects and he intimated he was not pleased with the events of today. Ulman also said that the funeral plans for Monday would be changed to do away with any elaborate demonstrations.

(By United Press)
NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—Rudolph Valentino, dead, today drew to the side of his casket a greater throng than he had ever drawn alive.

His body lay in state at the Campbell funeral church, on notary Broadway, while an unending line of the curious of film fans and people from all walks of life passed by.

At 6 a. m., the line began to form, although it was not until 9:30 that the doors were opened. After yesterday's rioting, in which about 100 persons were hurt, or were preserved by 20 mounted and 150 unmounted police.

Through the morning, the throng moved through the big, red-carpeted room, where Valentino lay. Every minute, 40 persons passed. A policeman and four Italians, who wore Fascisti garb, stood beside the casket.

Step Along, Cry Police

"Step along, step along, give the others a chance," the police called continually as the people passed by—much in the manner of a traffic officer clearing a jam.

At 10:30 a. m., the police estimated 1500 persons had passed the casket during the morning.

But the steady stream of humanity was but a part of the stream which was to come. Outside all through the noon hour, the line of people waiting their turn was three-quarters of a mile long, and was in places four abreast. It was then estimated 15,000 were in line.

The first casualty of the day was Miss Irene Newman, of No. 8 Luce park, Yonkers, who fainted as she passed by the actor's casket. She was taken to another room of the funeral church and revived.

For a moment this afternoon the scene at Valentino's bier changed. The line was stopped and attendants closed the doors.

First Wife Views Body

Then Joan Ackers, first wife of Valentino, who married him almost at the moment of his rise to fame, walked slowly in, a nurse and a maid at her side.

She wore a long brown cloak and hat to match. Her face was drawn. She stepped to the side of the casket, gazed a moment, removed her heavy tortoise-shelled glasses, bowed her head and wept softly.

Then she slowly walked away, saying nothing, and was led to an adjoining room, where she sat a long time, evidently much shaken.

But as she sat there the doors again were opened; the policemen began repeating "move on, move on," and the crowd resumed its procession past the bier.

Blanket of Yellow Roses

The people saw Valentino resting in his silver-bronze casket, over which was flung a blanket measuring 12 by 16 feet, made of yellow roses edged with orchids and which bore a card saying: "With love from Norma and Joe."

It was the offering of Norma Talmadge and Joseph Schenck, of the United Artists' corporation.

Other flowers came from Samuel Goldwyn, movie producer, who sent red dahlias; from Marilyn Miller, actress, who offered orchids and gardenias.

Jack Dempsey and Estelle Taylor sent their cards.

But of all the long line of people—men, women and girls; negroes from Harlem; Italians from the East Side; immigrants from the Ghetto; prosperous-looking matrons from upper Manhattan and the Bronx; tourists from out of town—not one left flowers or other tribute.

In State Until Sunday

To meet the situation, this tremendous outpouring has created, it was announced that Valentino's body would continue to rest in state daily from 9 a. m. until midnight.

Swing will arrive at 11:40 tomorrow morning from San Diego. He will be met by a delegation of Santa Ana men and taken to St. Ann's Inn. He will be a guest of the regular weekly meeting of the Lions club at noon at the Inn but will not be called upon for an address. Swing is a member of the El Centro Lions club.

The dinner meeting Friday night at St. Ann's Inn will be open to the public. It is expected that 400 or 500 reservations will be made. The executive committee of the young men's club especially urges that women attend this meeting. Tickets may be obtained at St. Ann's Inn, The Register, First National bank and White Cross Drug company.

U. S. OFFICIAL TOLD NEED OF FOREST FUNDS

The need for an appropriation of $1,000,000 for fire prevention and reforestation in the national forests of Southern California was amply shown to C. H. Fulloway, representative of Gen. Herbert N. Lord, director of the federal budget, when Orange county conservationists gathered last night at a meeting in Riverside to discuss the question with Fulloway.

Fulloway, according to Santa Ana men who attended the meeting, was thoroughly impressed with the importance of the situation in this state and said so. While expressing himself as unable to make any definite promises, he stated that after looking over the ground and listening to the speakers last night, he was fully aware of all circumstances and in position to make an intelligible report to his chief. He thanked the members of the Tri-counties Reforestation committee and Water Conservation committee, who arranged the meeting and informed him of the needs of this territory.

The necessity for the $1,000,000 appropriation from the federal government was discussed in a series of five-minute talks from a dozen speakers, including Supervisor S. H. Finley, of Santa Ana, and H. H. Hale, of Placentia.

The appropriation desired would be expended in the forest reserve regions of Southern California and would be divided among the several national forests in proportion to area and needs.

The situation was held up strongly before Fulloway by the various speakers who pictured a drought-ridden Southern California with bankrupt agricultural interests a few years hence, if water and forest conservation are neglected.

The meeting was held at the Mission Inn, with Francis Cuttle, of Riverside, chairman of the reforestation committee, presiding. Among the Orange county men present were S. H. Finley, H. C. Head and J. L. McBride, of Santa Ana; John Dunstan, Tustin; Wilbur Smith, Orange; H. H. Hale and Dana, Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Wolf, Cora M. Fulmore, H. L. Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Merrill, E. Brown, all of Los Angeles.

SENT TO JAIL FOR FAILURE TO APPEAR

T. L. Adams, 432 South Main street, Los Angeles, was told to appear in justice court, Santa Ana, on June 11 to answer to a charge of speeding 48 miles an hour over county roads.

Adams did not appear and the first time he saw the justice of the peace was yesterday, after an officer had gone to Los Angeles and brought him here.

As a result, Adams is in the county jail, serving a five-day jail sentence imposed for failure to appear in answer to the ticket.

RULER OF BELGIANS NOW GENUINE KING OF FINANCE

Dictatorial Powers Given Albert As Remedy in Financial Crisis

BRUSSELS, Aug. 25.—The world has a real king of finance at last. He is Albert, ruler of the Belgians.

Other so-called "kings of finance" merely are financiers who huckster money for profit. Albert is the real thing, by says of the people expressed through their parliament.

He was vested with a financial dictatorship in the hope he could save the Belgian franc from a complete fadeout. His far-reaching authority lasts until next October, and may be extended indefinitely.

Albert has not been slow to make use of his authority.

The visitor to Belgium quickly feels the effects.

First of all, the king called in the best Belgian's statesmen, financial experts, and economists as advisers, regardless of their political affiliations.

Strict limitations were imposed on the importing of cereals for bread-making.

White bread is outlawed. Gray bread takes its place. In the king's palace as well as in the hotel.

All-night resorts now close at midnight. Foreigners pay a tax for staying in the country.

The financial dictatorship edict empowers King Albert to:

Negotiate any loans he thinks necessary.

Modify the rules of operation of the Belgian national bank.

Increase taxes of all kinds.

Repress news which might injure the credit of the nation.

Regulate the use of foodstuffs.

Check the importations of both necessities and luxuries.

The railroads are to be turned over to a private company for operation, as a revenue measure.

It is intended for the country to go on a gold money basis.

Only a handful of deputies and senators opposed giving the king these sweeping powers. Parliament afterward adjourned until October 19, so there would be no legislation of debates to affect the situation.

The Belgian franc accompanied the French franc on its headlong tumble of recent months.

Parties Step Aside

Some time ago, there was a coalition in power in Belgium composed of Catholics, under M. Pouillet, and Socialists, under M. Vandervelde.

Their secretary of the treasury tried to stabilize the franc and failed. Then Pouillet and Vandervelde did a splendidly patriotic thing.

They told the king a government party could not save the franc. They advised a national union cabinet.

The king thereupon appointed M. Jaspard prime minister. One of the first things Jaspard did was introduce in parliament the bill naming King Albert financial dictator.

Vandervelde, the Socialist leader, several times premier and idol of the Belgian working classes, has invoked the support of the workmen for King Albert's efforts. He said:

"Workmen, American dollars and English pounds sterling do not matter to you. It is the Belgian franc upon which you must live and for which you must labor. It is up to the workman to protect the workman's franc."

The Belgian people have a lot of confidence in their king. More, they have an intense love for him.

Well they remember the World war days when he personally led his troops against the German invaders.

This love and confidence explain the readiness with which they made him a dictator when a new national crisis arose.

BUS COMPANIES MAY ESTABLISH TERMINAL HERE

Plans for making Santa Ana the terminal and distribution point for all motor transportation operating in the territory lying east and south of Los Angeles, comprising Orange, Riverside, San Diego, San Bernardino and Imperial counties, were discussed yesterday at an all-day conference meeting in Hotel Santa Ana, attended by traffic representatives of the Motor Transit and Pickwick Stages systems.

According to Max H. Green, traffic manager of the Motor Transit company, the plans under consideration call for a complete rearrangement of present schedules of all lines operating out of this city, including long distance runs touching here. The rearrangement of schedules of the various motor lines is designated to bring about closer connections between various lines, including the rail lines operated by the Pacific Electric, it was announced.

In rearranging these schedules, Manager Green explained, cognizance has been taken of the growing popularity of the Orange county beaches and resultant increase in patronage. The new schedules under consideration will furnish ample transportation facilities for those who desire to visit the various beach resorts on week-end nights, fixing the time for the return trips sufficiently late to allow the visitors to enjoy dancing and other forms of entertainment.

Charged with contributing to the delinquency of a minor, Joe Fernandez, 26, and G. Perez, 28, the latter a woman, of Stanton, were arrested yesterday afternoon by James Smith, deputy sheriff. They are being held in the county jail pending arraignment before Justice Kenneth Morrison.

Pedro Garcia, 21, resident of Lincoln street, was arrested by federal immigration officers yesterday afternoon and is being held in the county jail for investigation as to whether he illegally entered the United States.

Charged with assault, J. S. Hernandez, 22, 1117 Perry street, Anaheim, was arrested yesterday afternoon by Constable Ed Marion. Hernandez is in the county jail.

Long before the English channel was crossed for the first time by a swimmer—Captain Webb, 1875—champions of many lands had pitted their skill and powers of endurance against the channel gods. So many failures had been recorded, in fact, that the feat was generally considered to be beyond human endurance and stamina.

YOUNG RECORD IS POINTED TO BY SANTA ANA

The political record of Lt. Gov. C. C. Young, over a long period of years, has been so clear cut and progressive that he should be given the support for the Republican nomination for governor by every person interested in the welfare of the state, according to W. C. Baker, secretary of the Orange County By-Products company, of Santa Ana, in a statement issued today.

His statement follows: "The candidacy of C. C. Young for governor should have the support of every voter whose interest centers in the political welfare of this great commonwealth. I have not the personal acquaintance of Mr. Young, but have known him by reputation for something like 15 years.

"During my 20 years' residence in San Francisco, two years of that period I occupied a position that necessitated a careful scrutiny of the acts of every member of the legislature of California. Beginning with the 1909 session of the legislature, I have followed the career of Mr. Young and in all my experience in consideration of political issues and checking the record of members of the legislature, I never have known a person whose record is so clean, clear cut and outstanding for the general welfare of the whole state as that of C. C. Young.

"Having been a teacher in the public schools of San Francisco for a number of years, he is well versed in requirements of the schools of the state and his interest in the educational facilities of the state cannot be discounted. His long record as member of the assembly, speaker of the house and president of the senate has given him an experience along all lines of development of problems for the welfare of the state that fits him for filling the office of governor.

"His principles have been inherently sound and sacred and indicate relationship that must exist between man and man to attain the highest development of the whole commonwealth."

Salesmanship of Alleged Vagrant Is Being Probed

Having arrested E. E. Enalval, 40, on a vagrancy charge, city police, are investigating his alleged activities in selling or offering for sale the "rights" to one-half ownership of a hair tonic and dandruff destroyer, it was announced today.

Enalval was arrested yesterday by Sid Smithwick, assistant city marshal, in a hotel. Papers found on the man were made out in contract form, at a price of $100, and it was understood that the dandruff cure and hair tonic rights could be obtained even by putting up $100 interest in the family automobile.

Enalval was given a hearing before Judge J. F. Talbot in police court today and his trial set for 10 a. m. Friday. Bail was set at $200, but the man was unable to make it. He pleaded not guilty to the charge.

DATE FOR OPENING ROAD BIDS IS SET

Bids will be opened by the county supervisors September 27 in connection with the contract for rebuilding and widening the state highway from the city limits of Santa Ana to Laguna avenue, in Tustin. It was decided yesterday.

The county will award the contract for the south half of First street and the west half of D street, in Tustin, the other half of these two streets to be improved by the state. It is planned to lay concrete full street width, 56 feet, with curbs.

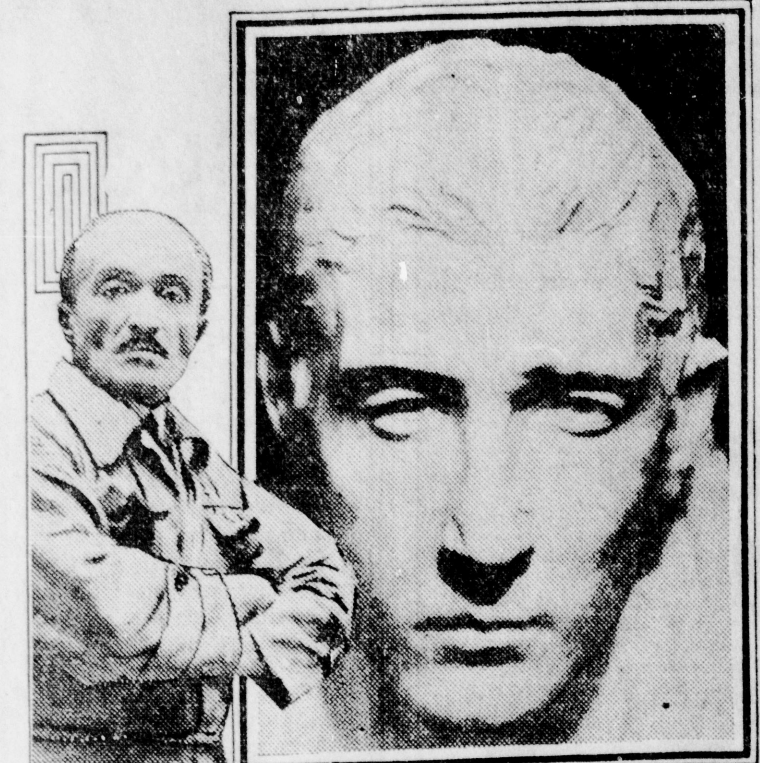

Residents of the Tustin district were before the supervisors at the hearing held yesterday in connection with the formation of an improvement district to carry on the work. Their visit was for the purpose of protesting against donating seven feet of ground from their property to provide space for sidewalk and parking. They found that the deed of this ground was a question not concerned with the paving proceedings and were informed that, in any event, it was a voluntary movement in which they might join or not, as they pleased.

The property owners were informed, also, that they would not be assessed for the expense of moving an irrigation pipe line, which removal was necessary at certain points. This would be financed, it was said, from funds of the automobile gas tax from the first district. The fifth district is also devoting $15,000 from its gas tax fund toward the paving job.

CANYON BOULEVARD TO OPEN SATURDAY

The Santa Ana canyon boulevard, which has been closed since the first of June, while paving operations were under way between Jefferson street and Peralta, will be thrown open to travel next Saturday, it was announced today.

Tourists along the way then will find a 5 1/2-mile stretch of new concrete pavement from Olive to Peralta, including the 4-mile strip just completed by the United Concrete Pipe and Construction company. The portion between Olive and Jefferson street was built not long ago. This new boulevard is 20 feet wide and averages about 5 inches in depth at the center, with 3 inches at the edges. With banked turns and many of the curves eliminated entirely, it is said to form one of the finest stretches of boulevards in Southern California.

Poker Face Is Declared To Be Distinguishing Type in U. S.

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—Strength, kindness and mystery—those are the typical qualities in the face of the American man.

Dr. Victor Frisch, Austrian sculptor and once favorite pupil of the great Rodin, makes this analysis of the faces he sees here.

The sculptor came to the United States to do a series of portrait busts of prominent citizens. Colonel E. M. House, the intimate advisor of President Wilson, was his first subject. Colonel House, says Dr. Frisch, has a typical American face and for that reason was a fascinating but difficult model.

"Women in America have less interesting faces than the men," says Dr. Frisch.

"Their appearance is less original. I believe this is because for generations they have been imitating European models of style and beauty. They are still doing so. Women the world over try to smile, walk, dress and otherwise look like Parisian women. They have succeeded to a certain extent and so all look alike.

Beauties from West

"The most beautiful girls in the United States, I think, are from the west. The really striking beauties here are of the tall blonde type."

American men's faces are a mask, Dr. Frisch says. They go farther in this respect even than the Orientals, and often present a baffling enigma. "The so-called 'poker face' he says, 'is the distinguishing characteristic of the new American. His face lacks the sternness of the former American type, the New Englander, but is, nevertheless, not so obvious. It also lacks the mobility of feature which characterizes nearly every other race."

Americans More Handsome

"There is about this frozen appearance a certain classicism which lends itself well to sculpture. The American is more handsome than the Englishman and resembles, more than any other type I know of, the early Roman. However, his face is kinder than the Roman's and lacks the full, sensual lines about the mouth.

"The typical American has a strong nose, firm mouth, broad forehead of medium height, rather hollow cheeks and deep-set eyes."

"But who are the typical Americans?" Dr. Frisch is asked. "From what race are they descended?" "From all races," is the reply. "I find that nearly all men whose parents were also raised in this country have a similar cast of countenance. I cannot explain it, but it seems to make no difference what races their ancestors represented."

All Will Look Alike

"If your immigration quota law is maintained, the time will come when all Americans will look more or less alike and be more characteristic as a race, I believe, than any other nation on earth. This phenomenon is due, perhaps, to the food you eat, the water you drink, your attitude toward life."

To illustrate this theory, Dr. Frisch points to the model he chose for his bust, "The Young American." The model is of mixed Polish and Austrian ancestry. The sculptor declares the lad is a typical American in appearance, but that if he had been born and reared in either Poland or Austria, he would be entirely different.

ASSISTANCE ASKED IN SEARCH FOR BOY

Sheriff's officers have been asked to aid in a search being made for Lawrence Rogers, 14, Los Alamitos youth, who left his home yesterday, riding a horse, after leaving a note stating that he was on his way to San Diego, where he expected to join the navy.

No trace of the boy has been found, it was said. Report to the sheriff's office was made by Coy Swindle, of Los Alamitos. Rogers was described as having brown eyes and a freckled face and when last seen was wearing blue overalls and a khaki coat.

Richardson Says Office Used to Get Law Respect

OAKLAND, Aug. 25.—"The power of the governor's office has been exerted to gain respect for the law, to secure law enforcement and to see that adequate punishment is meted out to criminals," Gov. Friend W. Richardson yesterday told a gathering, principally of women, at the Oakland Forum luncheon.

"So sisters of both sexes have received neither aid nor comfort from me," he continued. "Negligent local law enforcement officers have been prodded into action. The pardoning power has been used only in cases of emergency and the old practice of granting pardons to please politicians has passed."

Governor Richardson was scheduled to speak today in San Francisco.

If Governor Austin Peay, who has been renominated in Tennessee, is re-elected in November he will be the first third-term governor the Volunteer State has had since the Civil war.

THREE Campaign ISSUES

ONLY THREE

FRIEND WM. RICHARDSON
GOVERNOR

Three clean cut issues—only three—have a bearing upon the election of a Governor for the State of California.

Clever politicians have attempted to befog these issues by building up smoke screens to draw the public's attention away from these real campaign issues.

1 Economy and Efficiency

Should we have four more years of economical, efficient, sane, constructive state government or revert to the old spoils system with reckless waste of public funds?

Governor Richardson has made good his campaign pledges of economy and efficiency. He has supported Civil Service, appointed the highest type of judges, retained only competent employees, without regard to politics. Administration of corrective and humanitarian institutions has been improved and corrupt campaign practices have been abolished.

2 Law and Order

Shall we continue a regime of law and order in California, punishing adequately all guilty or be governed by sob-sisters, sentimentalists, Reds, enemies of Americanism, gunmen and bootleggers?

Governor Richardson has increased respect for California by enforcement of law and support of the constitution. He issues no pardons on account of popular clamor. He enforces convicts' sentences. Educational expenditures have increased 58.3 per cent during his administration.

3 An Administration not controlled by Big Bosses and Big Interests

Shall we continue an administration by a Governor possessing backbone, courage and decision, or shall we surrender our state government to the control of the political bosses of the two big California cities and the boss representing the disgruntled professional job holders thrown out of office for incompetency by Governor Richardson.

Fearless, unswerving in duty, and independent, Governor Richardson stands for every possible aid to farmers, good roads, justice to war heroes, and a fair deal for labor. He opposes official favors to gain political support and has eliminated the political bosses—Tom Finn, Kent Parrot and Al McCabe—from control of the state government.

Newlyweds Depart for Their Future Home In New Mexico

OS ANGELES First Methodist Episcopal church on South Hope street, was the setting for a wedding of quiet simplicity Monday, August 23, when Miss Muriel Deane Cravath, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. K. Cravath, 1705 Bush street, became the bride of Edward Fern Farr, son of Mrs. N. A. Farr, of Berkeley.

The ceremony was a morning one at 9 o'clock and the young people were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Morris Tracey Smith of Bakersfield. Miss Cravath chose a smart autumn afternoon costume of dark green silk and wool trimmed in heavy lace richly embroidered in colors. Her hat was a becoming felt in tea rose tints and she wore a corsage of orchids.

Mrs. Tracey Smith as honor matron, was costumed in beige georgette with hat in darker shades of brown. She also wore orchids. Mr. Tracey Smith assisted Mr. Farr as best man. The ceremony was read in impressive manner by the pastor of the church, Dr. Elford Ellsworth Helm.

Later the quartette of young people went to the Biltmore where an elaborate wedding breakfast was served. Mr. and Mrs. Farr then came to Santa Ana to have the day with Mrs. Farr's parents and sisters, Mr. and Mrs. A. K. Cravath, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Hilliard, Mr. and Mrs. George Platt and Miss Irene Cravath.

From here they went by automobile to the Grand Canyon where they were to spend the greater part of their honeymoon, the rest of it to be taken up with their motor trip to Silver City, New Mexico, where Mr. Farr is athletic director in the state university.

He is a graduate of the University of California with the class of 1922, and in addition to his membership in the Sigma Chi fraternity, made "Scabbard and Blade," an honor society. His bride is an alumnus of Santa Ana High school, having graduated with the class of 1917. She went to Bakersfield about five years ago where she was secretary to the president of the Security Trust and Savings bank.

Capistrano Y. L. I. Will Give Dances

A series of monthly dances to begin next month and continue for the following six months has been planned by Capistrano institute, No. 104, Y. L. I. Good music will be obtained and enjoyable evenings are promised to those who enjoy the terpsichorean form of entertainment.

A beach party at Huntington Beach to be held next Wednesday, September 1, was planned at the regular meeting of the institute held last night in Knights of Columbus hall, members and their families and friends to take a picnic supper, after which swimming will be enjoyed in the plunge.

Miss Beatrice A. Reilly was elected vice president to take the place of Miss Helen Young, who is leaving to attend the Oregon Agricultural college at Corvallis, Ore., and Miss Helena Lieberman was elected treasurer, as Miss May Kelly is moving to Los Angeles to reside. A chairman of the board of trustees will be elected at the next meeting, as that position is held by Miss Lieberman.

Under good of the institute various matters of interest were discussed, after which cooling refreshments of ices and cakes were served by a committee of which Ada L. Markel was chairman.

A Tested Recipe

Have you ever wished to serve some extremely simple dish for a quiet little home dinner—one that would be nourishing, satisfying and at the same time, require little trouble in preparation? Then delight your family some evening with baked cheese sandwiches. With the addition of a simple salad and a cooling dessert, it will make a home dinner that will be requested again in the very near future. At least it is a very popular one in the Little Gray House.

For four sandwiches (which may be cut diagonally to make double the number of tempting triangles) the requirements are eight slices of bread (we use whole wheat) one-half pound of cheese of any desired variety although we find longhorn delicious; two cups milk, three tablespoons butter, two eggs, one teaspoon salt, one-quarter teaspoon mustard, generous dash paprika.

The bread slices are buttered lightly and arranged in sandwiches with thin slices of cheese. Place in a shallow baking dish. Beat the eggs lightly, add milk and seasoning and pour over sandwiches. Bake in moderately hot oven until a golden brown and serve piping hot.

PLAYER, AUTHOR WED
NEW YORK, Aug. 25—Russell C. Medcroft and Jean May, once played husband and wife in "Golden Days." Now they are married, but they are to be independent of each other professionally. He's not to star her in plays he writes. The author of "Cradle Snatchers" became the husband of the leading lady of "The Poor Nut" at a hurried ceremony performed by a judge in the Port Chester police station at 4 a. m.

COCK RESENTS POLICE
SPOKANE, Wn., Aug. 25—Police-men on a liquor raid were resisted by a game cock and a watch dog. Despite the opposition, the liquor was seized, but its guardians were not arrested.

EASTERN SUMMER BEACHES ARE SPLASHED WITH VIVID COLORS

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 25—As the days grow warmer here, the hats grow larger, and as their circumferences increase, the color heights.

At the Casino, where the fashionable assemble for tennis or the morning concerts, and at the Beach, where everyone shows up by one o'clock for a dip, the colorful hats give a flower garden effect.

Extremely smart here is the large red hat, either in the hard lipstick shade or the fashionable bold de rose, and the more fashionable pinks. The smart hat contrasts rather than corresponds with the color of the frock.

Besides the reds, purple, yellow and all the pastel shades are in evidence.

Fifi In Red

Mrs. Cornelius Tangeman is often seen in all white costume and a brilliant red hat, and Fifi Widener Leidy has a red car wheel, so very large you can scarcely find her dainty little face beneath it.

With a gray two-piece frock, composed of a pleated skirt and jumper, Mrs. Dudley Davis wears a huge red hat trimmed with gros grain ribbon. Mrs. Bolling Lee also affects the red hat, though I much prefer her blue-gray model banded with deeper blue velvet with a big velvet bow on the side.

Another very lovely blue hat, of French blue untrimmed save for a ribbon, is frequently worn by the Princess Miguel de Braganza.

Mrs. Jerome Napoleon Bonaparte is most often seen in a large black capeline hat, and I notice she affects mauve frocks to her very evident advantage.

With a complexion of such purity as Mrs. Leonard Thomas owns, any

National Convention Of W. C. T. U. Will Draw Crowds

While the national W. C. T. U. convention in Los Angeles is still a month in the future, yet hints of the programs planned are being given out and workers in the noted temperance organization, are promised quite the most interesting program in the Union's history.

September 28 to October 6 will be the date of the great convention at which the principal themes will be "Peace, Purity and Prohibition" and "Mobilization for Law Enforcement."

Among the prominent guests will be Miss Anna Gordon, world president of the W. C. T. U. and honorary president of the national organization. She will preside over the Frances E. Willard birthday celebration, and also will preside at the important "World's Night" program, September 30.

Miss Gordon is regarded as one of the few prominent women who are conversant with what American women are thinking, planning and doing in the world. Her position in national activities keeps her in close touch with feminine groups interested in educational, social, philanthropic and religious work. Also as world W. C. T. U. president, she represents 1,000,000

Library Worker Takes Pleasant Position In San Francisco

HER scores of warm friends in this city, will be interested in hearing that Marjorie Brown, formerly connected with the Santa Ana Public Library, has completed her course at the Riverside Library school and accepted a position on the San Francisco Chronicle where she is in the library department.

Mrs. Brown is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Ocan, 2336 Fairmont. She graduated from the library school on August 13, and had a wire from the Chronicle a few days later, asking her to report for duty on Monday, August 23. She left at once, and was journeying northward while Mr. and Mrs. Ocan were motoring southward after a vacation spent in San Francisco.

The Ocan's are again at their home here and Mr. Ocan has resumed his place in the advertising department of The Register.

PERSONALS

Mrs. James C. Ryan, 320 West Second street, Mrs. Joe Solder, 330 West Second street, and Mrs. Annie Ott, 610 West Third street, have just returned from a week's delightful outing spent at Muriel's Hot Springs.

Dr. and Mrs. D. A. Harwood and sons, 814 South Birch street, are home after enjoying a two weeks' motor trip to Portland. The Santa Anans were delighted with Portland though it rained all the time they were there. Over 3000 miles was covered on the trip. At one hotel they just missed seeing the J. P. Baumgartner party by a few hours.

The Rev. S. M. Ramsey and daughter, Miss Martha Ramsey, of Los Angeles, were over-night guests Tuesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. O. S. Johnston, on West Chestnut street. The Rev. Mr. Ramsey is an uncle of Mrs. Johnston.

REQUESTS WILL BE HONORED IN BAND PROGRAM

A program of request numbers will be presented in Birch park Thursday night, commencing at 8 o'clock, according to announcement today by D. C. Cianfoni, director of the Santa Ana municipal band. More than 100 requests were received by the director and Harry L. Hansen, manager of the band, according to the announcement.

A march, "Strs and Stripes Forever," by Sousa, will open the request program. The march will be followed by an original overture, "Rival," by Petee. The "Carnival of Venice," with clarinet variations, will be played, featuring Lyle Roberts.

Robert Brown, popular soloist, will be heard in a number of selections, including "The Holy City," by Adams.

Featuring the concert will be a selection from "Carmen" by Bizet. Next week, the program made up entirely from compositions by Director Cianfoni. Included on the program will be overtures, waltzes, duet, trio and characteristic numbers. "The Titanic" Wreck, a composition of Cianfoni's, composed within 12 hours after the great Atlantic sea ship disaster, will feature the program.

ROBERT M. CLARKE TO WIND UP COUNTY SPEAKING TOUR WITH ADDRESS IN SANTA ANA

Robert M. Clarke, candidate for the Republican nomination for U. S. senator, will speak in Birch park here tomorrow night, starting at 6:45. He will conclude his address in sufficient time to avoid any conflict with the weekly concert of the municipal band.

Clarke has made two appearances in Orange county in recent months, once as a guest of the Young Men's Republican Club of Orange county and once as a guest of the Junior Chamber of Commerce of Santa Ana. However, he spoke but a minute or two on each occasion and his speaking engagement here tomorrow night will give him an excellent opportunity to express his views on the Swing-Johnson bill, of which he is a strong advocate.

DENVER PARTY TO HUNT RICH MEXICAN MINE

DENVER, Colo., Aug. 25.—An abandoned mine in old Mexico, from whence came much of the fabled gold bullion that went to stuff Spanish treasure chests two and three centuries ago, will be the object of a search by an expedition of Denver men this fall.

The party will be led by Capt. Alfonso P. Ardourel, who has had wide experience in Mexican mining, and will include Maj. W. Q. Howell, of the Colorado National Guard and Capt. Floyd N. Shumaker, regular army instructor for the guard air squadron. In addition, two men from Quaymas, Mexico, one of whom located the mine years ago before the Diaz revolution, will accompany the party.

A modern touch of the expedition will be the use of an airplane in the work of locating the old mine. Captain Shumaker expects to spend part of his leave on the trip and will obtain a plane for scouting work. Flying out of one of the border cities and working from landmarks furnished by the men who found the mine years ago, Captain Shumaker will be able to reduce materially the work of locating the exact site and assisting the ground party to its goal.

Old Records in Spain
Twenty-five years ago, Francisco Murillo, a prominent business man, of Quaymas, returned to Spain for a visit with relatives. A member of the family was a churchman and the latter showed his Mexican cousin some dusty old records of a nearby church describing one of the old Spanish mines in Mexico.

The mine had been located, opened and worked by the old conquistadores. The church in those days exacted some of the output of such mines as tribute to sustain its missionaries in the new land. The record found in Spain included a record of the bullion received as the church's share, together with a location map of the mine. Murillo copied the map, thinking on his return he would try to locate it.

In 1910, Murillo set out with his oldest son, Arto, for the abandoned mine. He outfitted at Yuma, Ariz., and struck south. After considerable hardship the pair located the mine, the shaft covered with palm logs. The country is arid and virtually unpopulated and their water supply was running low. Young Murillo was lowered into the dusty old workings on a rope chair and hammered off enough ore to fill a bucket several times. After this they were forced to strike out for civilization again.

Rich in Gold Content
The ore was assayed and was fabulously high in free gold content. Ardourel said. The Murillos saw a fortune just around the corner. But as so often happens in that country, a revolution came along, the attempt to overthrow Diaz. In the trouble, the Murillos lost virtually everything and the mine development had to be forgotten.

Ardourel has been operating one of the old Spanish mines near Quaymas and became well acquainted with the Murillos, learning the story of the mine. He suggested that he might be able to mine and obtain sufficient capital to put it on a working basis. The Murillos readily agreed to such a plan and the expedition is now a certainty, the captain says.

The Denver men probably will leave in November, as it is too hot in that country to get in before that time. The mine, according to the nearest calculations of the Murillos, is about 100 miles south of a point on the border 50 miles east of Yuma. They believe it is approximately 125 miles west of Magdalena, Mexico, in the Altar section of the state of Sonora. This would bring it from 30 to 40 miles inland from the gulf of Lower California, at a point near the island of Triboun, Ardourel figures.

MAN IS HELD ON CHECK CHARGE

Charged with passing a number of fictitious checks in Garden Grove and Norwalk, Robert Carson, 24, alias Eddie Colver, and also suspected of participation in several holdups in Orange county and in Los Angeles, was arrested by Deputy Sheriffs Joe Scott and Jim Smith, last night, in Los Angeles.

Carson was taken to Garden Grove today for the purpose of identification at a bank of that city, one of the alleged victims of a scheme in which the bank was defrauded.

The arrest of Carson was made after a week's work on the part of the Santa Ana deputies, who trailed him to Los Angeles by means of a set of automobile license plates.

At the time he was arrested, he was in company with an Indian girl, description of whom is said to fit a woman wanted in Los Angeles with the man, for at least 20 "stick-ups" in that city.

Los Angeles detectives were expected here this afternoon to talk with the prisoner concerning several holdups, in one of which a San Diego taxicab driver was shot, it was said.

Approximately 10 checks were issued by the man in Orange county, it is alleged by officers.

TWO ARE INJURED WHEN CARS CRASH
Two men were hurt, one seriously, at 11 a. m. today, when their cars collided at an intersection in Garden Grove.

F. W. Weatherby, Long Beach, suffered serious injury to one arm and P. C. Beecher, Stanton, was cut and bruised and suffered a dislocated shoulder.

They were taken to the Santa Ana Valley hospital, where it was said that Weatherby was seriously hurt. Beecher was expected to be removed to his home this afternoon.

Details of the accident were lacking late this afternoon.

BANK MERGER ANNOUNCED
LOS ANGELES, Aug. 25.—Merger of the Bank of Van Nuys with the Security Trust and Savings bank here, has been announced. Federal and state authorities are expected to approve the consolidation. The Bank of Van Nuys, organized in 1921, has resources in excess of $1,250,000.

the coast can be negotiated easily. The country, Ardourel says, is deserted with exception of an occasional roving band of Seri Indians, who populate Triboun island. It has little water and is hard to get through. The Spaniards probably followed their usual custom, reduced the ore to bullion at the mine site, then packed it out to the coast. Most of those Spanish mines were abandoned in the 18th century, according to Ardourel. The Denver party, if the mine is located and on inspection proves worth while, probably will make arrangements to mill the ore at the west coast, taking it overland by pack train or truck if a road can be put through.

The Denver men are highly enthusiastic over their plans. In addition to an adventurous trip, they have the possibility of finding a rich property, as many of the old Spanish mines are being worked at good profit now. Ardourel has been in Mexico off and on for years and declared the attitude of the Mexican government toward legitimate development and exploration work is most friendly.

FARMERS FROM U. S. INSTRUCT RUSS PEASANTS

RIGA, Aug. 25.—An important experiment is being made in Russia by American farmers, who have secured a concession of 23,000 acres of undeveloped land north of the Caucasus, midway between the Black Sea and the Caspian, and are educating Russian peasants in modern agricultural methods, including the use of motor tractors and other machinery of the latest type, and showing them how to prevent famines.

Relief Work Development
The experiment has developed out of the famine relief work in 1922, in which most of the present personnel took part. Harold M. Ware, a young agriculturist, felt that the thing to do at the time was to grow grain and demonstrate conclusively that famines could be avoided.

He took with him to Russia a number of North Dakota farmers, who knew nothing about the country or her needs, but everything about growing grain on a large scale. These men did such splendid work that they were encouraged, after relieving the famine, to return to Russia and take up the more permanent enterprise of agricultural education. The Soviet government agreed to give them a concession and to co-operate with them to the fullest extent in establishing an administrative farm school and service center.

Americans Have Control
The form of the organization is what is known as a mixed company—a company, that is to say, formed by the American Corporation and the North Caucasus Department of Agriculture. The Americans' share in the enterprise represents the usual 49 per cent of the total capital, the remainder being invested by the Russians. At the same time it is specifically stated in the contract that the Americans shall have the control and management for at least the first half of the experiment.

The aim is to establish an educational and service center on a basis that will be self-supporting, and will not require annual appeals for financial assistance from America after the initial capital is secured. In addition to the agricultural work, it is the intention to carry on welfare work, particularly among the women and children. Among the twenty-five members in the American group there are two physicians, two nurses and a child welfare worker.

Life of Concession
The life of the concession is fifteen years. On the three government estates that are on the land it is proposed to make a laboratory experiment with the view of demonstrating how the 600 similar estates throughout the country may be developed into self-supporting agricultural schools and experiment stations.

What the Russians themselves think about it may be gathered from the report of M. Sopranov, assistant director of the chief concession committee of Russia, who, after a personal survey, wrote, that "of all the concessions visited, that undertaken by the Russian Reconstruction Farm shows more promise as an educational venture than any other. Even the work of the Krupp concession, with millions of dollars behind it, cannot compare in educational significance with that of this American group, which has invested a comparatively small sum, and is still struggling for cash to support its educational work."

think about it may be gathered from the report of M. Sopranov, assistant director of the chief concession committee of Russia, who, after a personal survey, wrote, that "of all the concessions visited, that undertaken by the Russian Reconstruction Farm shows more promise as an educational venture than any other. Even the work of the Krupp concession, with millions of dollars behind it, cannot compare in educational significance with that of this American group, which has invested a comparatively small sum, and is still struggling for cash to support its educational work."

SHOULD HUSBANDS DO HOUSE WORK?

How Mrs. Dyer Solved the Problem.

Mrs. Mildred Dyer was lucky. She had a good-natured husband who held her with much of her housework. Because she was in ill health for five years, it was often necessary for him to do this. But it bothered Mrs. Dyer. She felt that he had to work hard enough anyway.

The time he spent in doing her work was needed for his own. She determined to find the road to better health.

She writes: "I think Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is simply wonderful. My health is better than it has ever been. I am getting stronger and gaining in weight."

The Dyers live at Redlands, Calif., Route A, Box 153.

How often does your husband have to do your housework? No matter how willing he is, no woman feels comfortable about it. Perhaps you, too, will find better health through the faithful use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

BOARD BELIEVES DELAY IN HEARING ON HARBOR BODY'S REPORT WILL AID PROJECT

Necessity of avoiding a jam in the election machinery of the county, already congested by the primary election of this month and the November general election, besides a desire to carefully guard the interests of the harbor itself, prompted the county supervisors to continue the hearing on the harbor commission's report for two weeks, late yesterday.

This announcement was made by Chairman T. B. Talbert to the gathering of harbor boosters, present at yesterday's hearing, when the board unanimously voted to continue the proceedings to September 2. The statement was received by the boosters without comment and appeared to be satisfactory to them.

That postponement of a decision regarding the calling of a new harbor bond election until a time when a part of the election rush is out of the way would be for the best interests of the project itself, as well as clearing the way for a more intelligent consideration of the problem, was stated by Talbert. The supervisors, he indicated, wish to feel their way more carefully in the matter of deciding when a new harbor bond proposal should be submitted to the voters.

Project Gains Strength
The harbor project is gaining momentum steadily, Talbert declared, and the two weeks' delay will benefit rather than harm it, he said. The county clerk's office, he explained, is facing a tremendous task in handling preparations for the two county and state elections this fall, and another election crowded in at this time might result in overburdening the official machinery.

The prime consideration, however, said the chairman, was to be certain that the time is ripe before an election is called.

When the question of how long the hearing should be continued arose, District Attorney A. P. Nelson advised the board that the hearing could not be postponed longer than four weeks. Action on the commission's report must be definitely taken within that period, under the statutes, Nelson said. Supervisor William Schumacher moved that the hearing be continued for two weeks and Supervisor S. H. Finley seconded the motion. All voted in his favor.

Commission's Report Read
Before the continuance was voted, Clerk J. M. Backs read the commission's report, containing an estimate of $550,000 for the work, engineering expenses and other costs connected with the project to improve the harbor entrance.

Chairman Talbert called upon Gen. Lansing H. Beach, consulting engineer for the harbor commission, to explain the contemplated method of unloading rock on the harbor jetty. In view of a question that had been asked the board, it appeared that a railroad must be built at great expense around the harbor for the purpose of hauling rock to a point where it could be unloaded on the jetty.

General Beach said there was no need nor thought of a railroad. The economical way, he said, would be to build a wharf along the jetty and carry the rock out on the wharf to unload it. Unloading from a barge would not be feasible, since a barge could not be moved near enough to the jetty for unloading, he said.

TARDY SPEEDER IS GIVEN JAIL CELL

"I understand there is a warrant for my arrest," said O. P. Williamson, 201 Orange avenue, Santa Ana, yesterday, when he appeared at the sheriff's office. Williamson now occupies a cell in the county jail and will for five days.

Williamson was arrested on June 25 by Frank Vaughn, state traffic officer, charged with speeding 50 miles an hour. He was scheduled to appear in justice court on July 2, but a friend of his was to appear for him, so at the appointed time he did not show up. Neither did the friend. Yes, there was a warrant for Williamson, charging failure to appear, and when he came into the sheriff's office yesterday he was taken before Justice Morrison, who sentenced him to serve five days in jail.

Speeder Pleads Guilty and Says He Will Appeal

C. C. Kellogg, 4128 Wilshire boulevard, Los Angeles, charged with speeding 52 miles an hour over an Orange county road, has pleaded guilty to the charge and given oral notice that he will appeal the case to the superior court of Orange county.

This is the first time since Kenneth Morrison has been justice of the peace that an alleged speeder has appealed his case, Morrison said today.

Kellogg was arrested by Vernon Barnhill, state traffic officer, on July 24 and first was scheduled to appear here on July 24. He gave notice of his appeal through the Automobile Club of Southern California, which is handling his case.

Stone Age Homes Are Discovered

GENEVA, Aug. 25.—Europe's first houses, built 7000 years ago in the Stone Age, have been unearthed near Lake Zurich, Switzerland. These homes were originally on tree-trunk piles in the lake, with floors just above the water line of large slabs of stone bearing hieroglyphics. A combination of clay and wood was used in the construction of these huts. Stone axes, spears and domestic utensils found nearby will join the prehistoric collection in the Bern museum.

With virtually all of the representative golfers of the county entered, the twenty-sixth annual western open golf championship will get under way at Indianapolis on August 26th.

ORDER BALCONY AT POLY HIGH BE MADE SAFE

Matters relating to the Santa Ana high school plant, including an investigation into the alleged unsafe condition of the balcony of the auditorium, and complaints against alleged certain unsanitary features of the newly constructed swimming pool, forming part of the new gymnasium building, held last night at the board rooms.

Trustees Alex Brownridge, Marshall L. Keeler and Dr. Roy S. Horton attended the meeting. Others present were City Supt. J. A. Cranston and George W. Duncan, newly appointed business manager of the city school district.

Duncan was directed to make a thorough investigation of the reported unsafe condition of the balcony in the auditorium, and report back with recommendations. Pending such investigation and necessary repairs, the balcony will be closed to students and the public. According to Duncan, a portion of the floor of the balcony has sprung away from the main wall.

Dr. Horton, member of the buildings and grounds committee, declared that he was not satisfied with the sanitary arrangements at the swimming pool. He explained that, because of faulty construction of the gutter under the upper edge of the pool, waste matters, that should be disposed of by means of runways, find their way back into the pool. Adjustments will be made to correct the condition, it was stated today.

The resignation of Miss Margaret Baker, librarian at the high school and junior college, was accepted. Miss Baker is leaving for Pasadena, where she has accepted the position of librarian of the Pasadena high school.

Miss Amy Reid, 1237 Cypress avenue, was appointed secretary to the principal of the Julia C. Lathrop junior high school, to take the place of Miss Virginia Metzgar, who is leaving for the east to take up university work.

Gives Bad Check To Officer for Prisoner Return

CHICAGO, Aug. 25.—Timothy Donovan of the Chicago police department started out for Glenwood Springs, Colo., to bring back Nicholas Stathus, recently of Chicago, and now charged with larceny.

George Stergin, complainant against Stathus, gave Donovan the money with which to pay the transportation to Colorado. It was a check. The Chicago & Northwestern railroad cashed the check, gave Donovan a ticket and some change. Donovan was well on his way before the check bounced back out of the clearing house. The railroad sent a telegram to Grand Island, Neb., ordering Donovan taken off the train. Meanwhile Stathus was unaware that the law had been caught in a bad check.

Stergin, the outraged Chicagoan, who yielded for Stathus' arrest, did not put his address on the rubber check. He is now being sought with some zeal and a duo success by Donovan's friends.

Modern Methods Used In Heating Medieval Castles

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 25.—The inhabitants of old Swedish castles enjoyed modern comforts more than four centuries ago.

The castle of Glimmingehus, one of Sweden's most famous country seats, built in 1493, contained a central heating plant in the basement, with conduits through the walls, discovered by representatives of the Royal Swedish Academy of Antiquities. This is believed to be the oldest installation of its kind in northern Europe. Breakfast in bed also apparently was enjoyed by the master and mistress of the castle, as speaking tubes were found leading from their bedrooms to the kitchen.

YOUNG TELLS OF OPPOSITION TO WATER BILL

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 25.—The fact that power company representatives in Orange county interested themselves in the fight made in 1925 against the Metropolitan Water bill was pointed out in an address at Venice last night by C. C. Young, candidate for the Republican nomination for governor. Young declared that Governor Richardson's administration opposed the passage of the bill because it was the wish of Harry Chandler and the corporation crowd, who, Young said, are fighting tooth and toe-nail to re-elect their friend, Richardson, that he do so.

"The future of Southern California municipalities is absolutely dependent upon a domestic water supply from the Colorado river," said Young. "You must have the metropolitan water district bill to enable your municipalities to unite to build the aqueduct. But Richardson newspapers in Orange county, edited by members of the Richardson campaign committee, are even now fighting that bill as iniquitous and attempting to defeat the Richardson administration for defeating it in the assembly at the last session of the legislature."

Blame Power Company
"That defense is set forth at great length in a special edition of the Orange Daily News, published by Justus Craemer, chairman of the Richardson campaign committee for Southern California."

"In the discussion started by Craemer's statements by leading citizens of Orange county have disclosed the fact that telegrams of protest against the metropolitan water district bill were evidently instigated through propaganda spread by representatives of a power company."

Everyone in Sacramento, even first term assemblymen, know the source of that avalanche of opposing telegrams. The administration killed the bill because it is a Chandler corporation administration and because the metropolitan water district bill's passage would have advanced the cause of the Boulder canyon project.

Promises Dam Support
"If I am governor there will be no repetition of what has happened at the last session of the legislature. All of the influence of the state administration will be thrown in favor of this or any other legislation necessary to facilitate the Boulder canyon development and to make it possible for the people of Southern California to participate in the benefits of the development."

The lieutenant governor spoke at noon at San Pedro at the luncheon of the Shrine and service clubs.

DOCKWEILER GIVEN PHELAN'S SUPPORT

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 25.—Soundings the final call to arms before the primary, former Senator James D. Phelan today issued a statement calling on the Democrats of California to preserve party unity and support Isidore B. Dockweiler for Los Angeles, for the Democratic senatorial nomination.

Democratic leaders here today predicted that, with the entrance of Phelan into the Democratic battle, support of Dockweiler will be solidified. In his statement, Phelan calls attention to the long record of Dockweiler's activity in behalf of California and the party and changes his fellow Democrats to support this man, who has been drafted by the California Democracy.

Indorsement of Dockweiler by Phelan, dean of California Democrats, is declared by political wiseacres to set at rest the Tammany issue, which has been injected into the Democratic contest by Dockweiler's opponent. Phelan is a life-long enemy of the Tammany tiger and has fought actively for years to keep Tammany influence out of California politics.

WHY PEOPLE OF BRITAIN DO NOT LIKE AMERICANS

This might be an exclusive radiophoto of the average Englishman's conception of the average American. Note the horn-rimmed glasses, the ice water, the cocktail, the ice cream soda and the general air of self-sufficiency. The sour-looking gent in the right background is Mr. J. Bull.

Fondness for Horn-Rimmed Specs and Ice Water Draws Criticism

LONDON, Aug. 25.—Blood may be thicker than water, and the brotherly clasp of hands across the sea may be all very touching, but the fact remains that the people of America have been kidding themselves about the relations between their own country and Europe.

It is said to relate, but very true, that the average European has about as much affection for America as the Anti-Saloon league has for Senator Jim Reed.

The intense wave of anti-American feeling in Europe now is undoubtedly due largely to the feeling that Uncle Sam has been playing the part of a villainous Shylock as far as the collection of war debts is concerned. But the average European finds a lot of other things about the American he doesn't like. Take the average Britisher, for example. Ask him why he dislikes Americans and he would reply:

List of Faults
They wear horn-rimmed glasses. They indulge gluttonously in ice cream sodas.

They tip too highly. They speak with a rasping nasal accent instead of the velvety lilt of the native Cockney.

They have too much push and brag too much. The wet Yankees drink too many cocktails.

The dry Yankees drink too much ice water.

The Englishman has learned these things about us, not from first-hand observation—not one Englishman in ten thousand has really seen a typical American at close range—but through the funny men on his stage, the jokes in the funny papers and the paragraphs in the daily press. Then, too, there is the horrid feeling underneath it all that, while Britannia may still rule the waves, America rules the banking houses and has a first mortgage on most of the gold in the world. And maybe gold is better than waves, after all.

Attitude on Debt Payment
Tackle a highbrow "Englishman" and he, with a bland accent broad enough to skate on, will remark that America has a most improper attitude toward debt payments, and post-war problems generally; that America has made a holy show of itself over prohibition, and that America makes too many cheap movies. He will add that England owes America much money, and that no debtor ever pulled a Damon and Pythias with his leading creditor.

Recently the Spectator, England's leading highbrow paper, and one that for years has tried to bring America and England closer together, ran an editorial headed, "On Hating America." It admitted a growing anti-America feeling in England and sought the reasons.

One reader remarked that we are too self-righteous. We raise a row about opium in India, he said, and are ourselves a nation of drug users. We have a multitude of divorce cases but refuse to let a prominent woman land because she had been divorced.

Those "Beastly Ads"
Another reader cried that Americans have no culture and that our papers and magazines are too full of "beastly advertisements."

One reader, however, protesting that Britishers are judging too harshly, "Politically the Americans may be almost offensive," he said, but personally they are a chivalrous and humble-minded people.

And another says: "We in England entirely fail to appreciate the intense spirit of kindness pervading every class of life in the states."

But such voices are few and far between. America is a caterpillar in the salad, as far as the average Englishman is concerned—and he doesn't care who knows it. (Copyright, 1926, NEA Service, Inc.)

DAY WILL ASK WIFE BE FREED FROM PRISON

CHICAGO, Aug. 25.—A plastic operation having removed the scars that have disfigured him since his pretty young wife threw acid in his face, Darby Day Jr., 23-years-old millionaire, is making plans to leave for Los Angeles to secure a pardon for Mrs. Day, now serving a sentence in a California prison for her act.

Dr. Henry J. Schireson, plastic surgeon, announced he had completely removed the ugly scars by adjusting the facial tissues and grafting new skin and hair to the eyebrow which was burned away when Mrs. Day threw nitric acid at her husband a year ago.

Young Day, swathed in bandages, then announced he would leave for California as soon as he is able to quit his bed.

"My love for her is over, but I want to free her from prison," he said. "I feel that, if I face the pardon board without the scars, my pleas will be more effective."

HUSBAND TO HAVE NO INFLUENCE ON BOARD

OAKLAND, Aug. 25.—"The wishes of the victim of any crime would have no influence upon the parole board," Will H. Morrish, chairman of the state parole board, declared in commenting on the reported effort of Darby Day Jr., Chicago millionaire, to obtain the pardon of his wife, Bertrice L. Day, from San Quentin penitentiary.

Mrs. Day is serving a sentence of from one to 14 years for disfiguring her husband's face with acid one year ago, in Southern California.

"The people of the state have made the law," Morrish continued, "and they are the ones to be satisfied first. Of course, Darby has the right to appear before the board and present his arguments. But, nevertheless, the prisoner must complete sentence unless the board deems a parole advisable."

METHODIST IN JAPAN RESENT U. S. BAN

TOKIO, Aug. 25.—Declaring that Japanese resentment over the enactment of the so-called Johnson clause of the immigration act remains undiminished; characterizing such legislation as un-Christian and un-American, and seeking a remedy through amendment of the American naturalization law, the Japan Methodist Episcopal mission, one of the most influential mission organizations in this country, has adopted a resolution calling for alteration.

The resolution was adopted at the annual conference held at the mountain resort of Karuzawa.

Resentment Not Diminishing
The resolution begins by stating that assertions have been made that there is no hope of a repeal of the immigration law in the near future but that, owing to the attitude of the missionaries, dissatisfaction still exists thereby injuring international amity. These assertions are denied by the mission, which says that resentment on account of the immigration bill is not diminishing, and that the missionaries are not agitating to keep alive the "indignation felt by the Japanese."

Missionaries Interested
"On the contrary," says the resolution in part, "because of the Christian missionary's deep sympathy with the Japanese in their offended pride and disillusionment as to America's sense of international justice and interracial fairness, we have been somewhat able to assuage the indignation with the assurance that, whatever of unfairness has entered into American legislation, will surely be rectified in time when the situation and the implications of the law are more thoroughly understood."

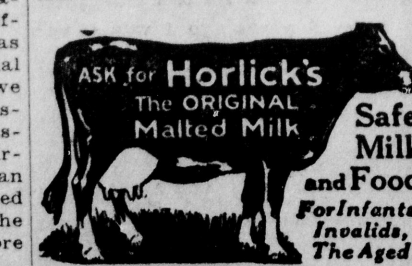

The resolution then says that the missionaries do not want any special treatment for Japan alone and claim no larger consideration for the people of this country than for other Oriental peoples.

Offensive to All Asiatics
After declaring that no sympathy is extended to agitators on either side of the Pacific who, for purely selfish political and economic reasons, continue to foment international prejudice and suspicion, the resolution winds up thus:

"We believe that, if any criticism is to be made of the policy of those committees striving to affect a change in American immigration legislation as regards Japan, it is because they have not been clearly and consistently more inclusive and fundamental. While we have an especial relation to, and interest in, the Japanese people, we claim for them no larger consideration than for other Oriental nations. The present immigration and naturalization laws of the United States are offensive to the self-respect and national dignity of all Asiatic races."

"Some remedy for this un-American and un-Christian attitude should be sought. The fundamental reform needed is such amendment of our naturalization law as will open American citizenship, under the safeguards of high qualifications, to everyone, without racial or national discrimination."

Too Many Books, Graves In World, Claims Educator

LONDON, Aug. 25.—There are too many books and graves in the world, says Prof. J. F. Thorpe, F. R. S., organic chemistry expert.

"Civilization appears to be confronted with two ever-growing problems—the increase in its cemeteries and in its libraries," the professor declared in his presidential address to the chemistry section of the British Association of Oxford.

"The former, no doubt, will be solved by cremation. Is it too much to hope that a judicious exercise of this method may also be applied to our libraries?" Professor Thorpe asked in the course of his address.

Papers Condemn Attacks Made On Foreign Visitors

PARIS, Aug. 25.—A large proportion of the Paris press contains articles on the recent regrettable action of a thoughtless crowd in booting charabancs containing visitors.

The tone of these articles is unexceptionable. All condemn the manifestations as ill-mannered and economically unsound. It is pointed out also that the charabancs not only contain representatives of English-speaking countries, but also are frequented by South Americans and by French provincials in Paris on holiday.

The attitude taken toward the matter in this comment is widely quoted with approval.

Political Announcement

For Sam Jernigan

Friends of Sheriff Sam Jernigan are reporting what to them is a very gratifying trend in his favor. They find the voters expressing not only their faith in the candidate but express their hope that he should be rewarded with a second term.

It is pointed out by these friends, that the record of the office justifies the voter in returning Sheriff Jernigan. That will be but following the attitude of the Orange county voters toward the former sheriff, and they say they can not see "why any discrimination should be made in the case of Sheriff Jernigan inasmuch as his administration has proved economical and effective and in the interest of good citizenship."

Encouraged by what they say is an emphatic change of sentiment in Mr. Jernigan's favor his friends are making the closing campaign most active in his behalf and say they have every assurance that he will be successful.

Keep Your Skin Clear

Zemo Prevents Skin Troubles

Have no fear of dry winds or warm sun. Zemo, the safe, dependable antiseptic liquid will keep your skin free from all blemishes. It gives instant relief in even the most severe cases of sunburn, rash, scalds, ringworm, eczema, or any other skin trouble. It often banishes minor blemishes overnight. It does not show, and it is used freely in daylight.

At night you need Zemo ointment. And as a preventive bathe your skin regularly with Zemo soap. Then your skin will always remain clear and cool.

Spray Citrus Trees Now

Spray your citrus trees now with VOLCK, while the scale are small and most easily and economically controlled. Early control also prevents the pest from devastating the trees and robbing them of the starches and sugars needed to put size and quality into the fruit.

VOLCK KILLS CITRUS SCALE

Mid-summer scale control has been made possible by this unique material, which has a margin of safety several hundred percent greater than any other spray, and can be safely applied any time of year. VOLCK kills Black Scale, Red Scale, Purple Scale, Yellow Scale, Citricola Scale, Mealy Bug, and most other citrus insect pests, and is especially valuable in the eradication of Red Spider. It is a spray of the "quick-breaking" type, which quickly covers the sprayed surface with a uniform oily film, which saturates and penetrates both egg and adult with deadly effectiveness, and greatly retards reinfection.

For clean thrifty trees and maximum production of fancy fruit spray with VOLCK and spray early.

ESTIMATES OF FUNDS NEEDED FOR COUNTY'S SCHOOLS MADE

Mitchell Prepares List of Probable Costs of Operations for Year 1926-27

ASKS $575,000 FOR ELEMENTARY WORK

Expenses of $361,890 Are Anticipated for Various High School Districts

Estimates of county funds for maintenance of public schools, prepared by R. P. Mitchell, county superintendent of schools, and submitted to the board of county supervisors, show the elementary schools will need $575,000 and the high schools $361,890 for the school year 1926-27, according to the same estimates, the junior college will need $81,755.

The estimates are based on an allowance of $700 for each regularly employed teacher and $17 per pupil, based on average attendance, for elementary schools; and $90 per pupil, based on average attendance, for high schools.

The minimum amount of county funds that must be appropriated by the supervisors, according to statutory requirements, is $417,530 for elementary schools, and $241,350 for high schools.

The estimates state that the following school districts have asked for special taxes:

VALENTINO'S CHOICE IN LEADING LADY QUEST, AND THEN DEATH INTERFERED

Marion Benda, right, the pretty chorine who was companion of Rudolph Valentino upon the night that the super-sheik of the films was stricken.

Valentino had been searching for a new leading lady. While in New York, he dropped in at a performance of the Ziegfeld revue. He noticed Marion, watched her work and began to wonder if she might not fit the role.

He asked a theater man who she was, but so obscure was Marion that the friend shrugged his shoulders. Rudolph said he'd like to meet the girl. The message went back stage. Naturally, little Marion was thrilled beyond words.

Broadway began to wonder who might be the pretty maid seen at the night clubs with Rudy. They were dancing at one when Rudy complained of illness. He took her home and, according to Marion, thanked her for contributing to "an evening of great beauty," kissed her hand and departed. The following day he was under the knife, and little more than a week later, Rudy died.

But Marion is no longer obscure. The accident in circumstances has made her vastly important on Broadway. If Rudy considered her "leading lady material" why—?

FINE DISPLAYS ARE PROMISED BY COMMITTEE

Twenty-two communities in Orange county are planning ways and means to get into the big feature tent at the Orange County fair and "we'll put 'em all in if we have to double the size of the tent," says A. M. Stanley, secretary of the Orange county fair bureau.

"The feature tent surely will be the best portrayal of what Orange county is and will be," said Kellogg, chairman of the feature exhibit committee. "Every community will put forth on display the very best of its soil products and competition for artistic arrangement and feature novelties will be very keen."

Every effort will be directed to keeping up the reputation that the county now has of being the richest little county in the United States. Establishing the Orange County fair in permanent buildings is the biggest forward step in its line for several years. Considerable improvements are gained by this step and at the same time it is economically advantageous.

"Every day sees new attractions added to the program and the complete story of the many interesting events will be issued in a few days."

Alleged Coast Guard Deserter Gives Self Up

SAN DIEGO, Aug. 25.—Charles J. Whitney, alias Hannigan, 26, self-styled deserter from the U. S. coast guard cutter No. 126, whose crew was indicted at New London, Ct., for alleged rum running activities, was held at the county jail here, pending arrival of coast guard authorities from San Pedro.

According to Whitney, he was in a hospital at New Haven, Ct., when the ship's crew was indicted. He fled to South America, returning to this country last July. Since then, he has been working for the late Rudolph Valentino, in charge of the film actor's yacht, the Phoenix.

In a written confession to immigration inspectors at the Tia Juana border, Whitney, or Hannigan, detailed the operations of the coast guard craft. He received more than $3000 in bribes, he said.

Whitney gave his home address as Grafton, Mass.

For the last two weeks, he told officers, he had been in Tia Juana on a "drunk."

BRITISH WRITER REAL BOOSTER FOR SANTA ANA

With Cope Medhurst, a British "free lance" writer in the literary field, now registered at Hotel Santa Ana, another name has been added to the growing list of enthusiastic Santa Ana boosters.

Although a banker and accountant by profession, Medhurst has devoted most of his leisure time to literature. In addition to writing several books and playlets, he has been a regular contributor to various British publications.

Included among his works are "Thirteen Fairy Tales," "The Second Whitecap Magazine" and the "Tunnel Mystery," all published by British book concerns.

After graduating from Rugby, his travels took him to Oxford. He does not claim the world famed university as his alma mater—he went there to clerk in a bank.

Writers Impressions
His impressions of Southern California and of Santa Ana in particular, are set forth in the following contribution, written by himself:

"Someone has just asked me if I like Santa Ana.
"Last year, when I heard that business duties demanded a visit to Santa Ana, I remember that I was not altogether pleased at having to leave Los Angeles, to which city I am much attached, but when the call came just a year after I could hardly get my grip packed quickly enough. California always has so much to show and so much to interest that one constantly is getting thrills and Santa Ana has certainly provided a thrill for me. In California there is joy to be found in the wild mountains, on the beaches and in the little far off towns, and always, it seems to me,

YOUNG OFFICE IN SANTA ANA IS BUSY PLACE

Printed Information Concerning Lieutenant Governor Now Is Available

The Young-for-Governor headquarters, in the Helbush building, was the scene of much activity today and an air of confidence was predominating as regards the nomination of the Republican party for governor following the primary election August 31.

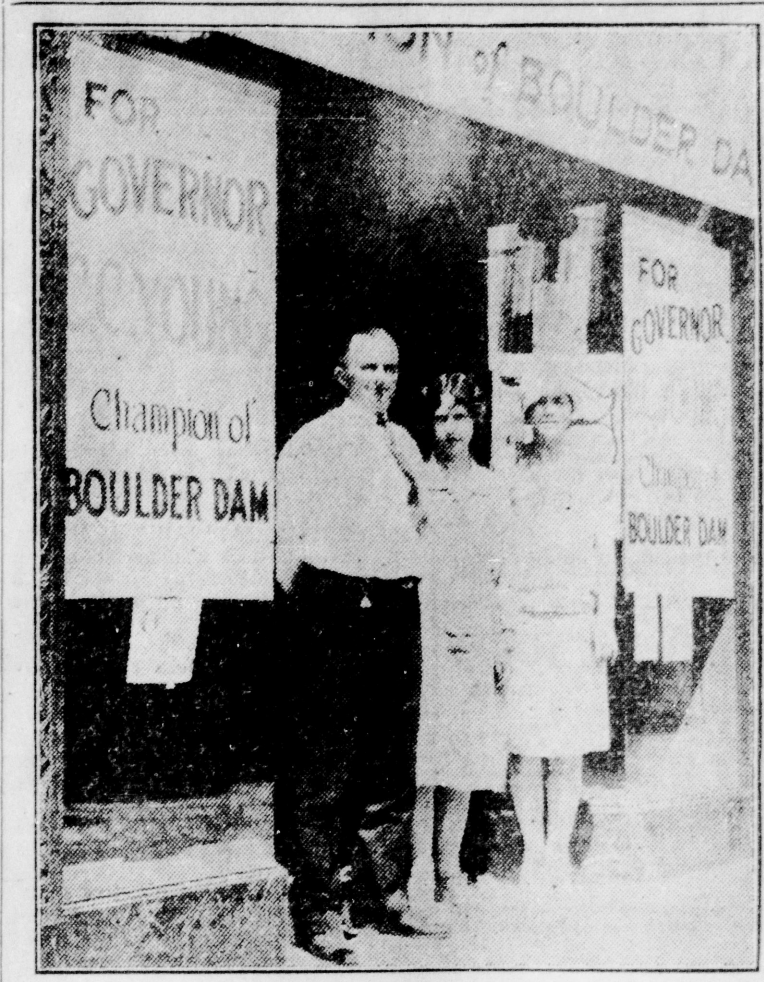

George Hubbard, in charge of the quarters, said that he had received numerous telephone messages from many points over the county assuring him of strong support from the respective districts for the champion of the Boulder dam.

Two young women have been employed to send out campaign literature and address letters to voters. Hubbard called attention to the fact that Young supporters may secure printed information concerning the candidacy of the lieutenant governor at the headquarters.

One report received at the headquarters was from San Juan Capistrano, to the effect that although the present administration had been represented in the Mission city by campaign workers for several days, San Juan Capistrano would cast a big majority for Young when election day rolls around.

The telephone at Young headquarters is 3350.

FISH STORIES COME AND GO BUT HERE'S PUZZLER WITH NO SOLUTION YET IN SIGHT

Wanted, a detective to find four missing gold fish. A reputable citizen of Tustin is beginning to doubt his eyes, or mind, or neighbors . . . he hasn't decided which just yet. But a little over a week ago his wife and daughters started on a trip north and left him in charge of the house . . . and incidentally the goldfish, most cherished of possessions.

The fish were so valuable, and one especially, that it was kept in a large glass bowl, all by itself. In the other bowl were four, not so cherished.

One night, about a week ago, when this said reputable citizen of Tustin came home from work, he started to pick up old newspapers from the floor, he said, and, happening to glance at the fish bowl, thought he saw only three fish there. Walking over to the stand on which the glass house stood, he counted one, two, three—and no fourth. He counted again. One, two, three—if they'd just remain in one place half a minute.

Counts 'Em Again
Rubbing his head and blinking his eyes a few times, he began to count again, and no fourth fish. Then he looked on the floor, under the papers, on the table, under the chairs and even in the other bowl, but no fourth fish could be found. According to the man's own words, he tried to put the problem out of his mind that night when he went to bed, but he heard the clock strike 11, 12 and then 1, before Morpheus had his way. Afraid to tell any of his friends about the queer happening, this man said he kept it to himself, trying all the next day to think what could have happened to the fourth fish. There is no cat in the house and even if a stray cat had come around, it could not have entered the house. That night the first thing he did, he said, upon entering the house, was to count the fish. The one by itself was safe and there were the three others in the other bowl.

The man decided that night that he would forget all about the strange disappearance and put it in the list of unsolved mysteries. The next night he came into the house whistling, with no thought of the fish in his mind. He casually looked into the bowl and—hardly could believe his eyes . . . only two fish remained.

Starts Search Again
Now this is the story of one of the most temperate, law-abiding citizens in Southern California, and he said that he immediately went through the same search he had two nights before, but no missing fish could be found. This was almost more than he could stand, he said, but he was more determined than ever not to say anything about it to his friends, for it was now in the category of fish stories that are better left untold if one desires to keep his reputation for veracity.

Looking all the windows and doors as tightly as he could, the next morning, before leaving for work, he found the same number that night when he got home. For two or three days he fed the three fish, two in the big bowl and one in the small bowl. Thinking perhaps a cat had been entering the house, the man was beginning to think he had found the source of the trouble.

The third night he came home well satisfied with himself for thinking of a good solution of the puzzle. After eating dinner, he sat down to enjoy the evening paper, when, without any thought of the fish in his mind, he glanced at the bowl where the one fish had been. "Had been" is correct, for the bowl was empty.

Dislikes Going Home
The man said he ate down town the next night, hung around until time for lodge meeting and talked to every one he could after meeting, but finally the time came when he had to go home—or to the hotel. He went home and to bed—without looking in the room where the gold fish were. If they had been charmed and were turning to real gold and were being stolen and by some

FAIR GROUNDS AS SITE FOR COUNTY CIVIC CENTER URGED

Speakers Voice Sentiments For Unified Program of Athletic, Civic Events

NEW FEATURES OF 1926 SHOW TOLD

Editors and Division Chiefs Gather at Dinner Supplied by Women of G. G.

An Orange county civic center at the new permanent location of the fair grounds, on the state highway between Anaheim and Santa Ana, was envisioned last night by newspaper editors and members of the fair board, at a complimentary dinner given by the board to the newspapermen.

Speakers pointed out that the location was practically in the center of the county, both from geographical and population angles and that the site is on one of the most heavily traveled highways in Southern California.

Coliseum Mentioned
If the junior chamber of commerce of Santa Ana wants to erect a coliseum, no better site could be selected than the fair grounds, in the opinion of S. W. Stanley, of Tustin, a member of the fair board.

Ralph McFadden, of Placentia, listed several of the reasons for the location of the fair grounds on the state highway, midway between two principal cities of the counties, but within the boundaries of neither.

A. M. Stanley, former secretary-manager of the fair, told how he came to rewrite the historical pageant, "The Birth of an Empire," and predicted that the offering would be among the most pleasing of all the fair features.

J. R. Hunt, secretary-manager of the fair this year, expressed his appreciation for the manner in which the editors of the county had printed the news concerning the fair.

Frank Purinton, of Santa Ana, chairman of the automobile show division, stressed the necessity for securing more members for the fair association.

Silk Mills to Exhibit
George Raymer, of Santa Ana, chairman of the industrial division, said that one of the most interesting exhibits in that division would be the display of the Hermosa Silk mills, and that the exhibit would be the first of California's infant industry ever made at a county fair. He seconded the remarks of previous speakers to the effect that the county should act as a unit in promoting the fair and that there was nothing too big for the county to undertake.

George T. Kellogg, of Yorba Linda, spoke at length concerning the colonial motif of the fair and the prizes to be awarded for the best colonial costumes worn at the fair in connection with the feature displays. These prizes will be $25 each, with second prize of $10 each to be awarded the runners-up.

Dr. E. E. Long, editor of the Anaheim Press, declared that the Anaheim orange show should be held at the fair grounds and should be made a county-wide event. His remarks in this connection were applauded. Dr. Long said he made the statement, realizing that he might come in for censure from the county.

There is absolutely no catch to this offer in any way, you are under no obligation whatever. Here is your opportunity to find out just exactly what is causing your trouble and to actually see the condition with your own eyes. You have had enough guesswork; now learn the facts.

We, as Palmer X-Ray Chiropractors, have made a special study of the spine and the nervous system and realize the importance of keeping the nerves free from pressure in order to have and maintain a healthy body. Many individuals think that because we work exclusively on the spine, not realizing that every part of the body receives its power to function or its life, directly from the main line—these nerves. Our work is to find these pinched nerves which are causing your trouble and with our hands alone, in a very careful manner, without pain, remove this pressure. We do not use medicine, surgery, osteopathy, massage, violet-ray, electronic reaction or any other adjunct. Only our hands upon your spine. We do not twist your neck, pull your legs or use hammers.

No matter what your trouble is or how long standing, we are sure that we can help you if it is possible to do so. We do not care how many things you have tried; don't say that you have done "everything there is to be done" until you have consulted us about your condition. Many sick people are coming to find relief through medicine, surgery, massage, electricity, violet-ray, electronic reaction, etc. You, too, can be well and enjoy good health.

AT THE THEATERS

Lloyd Hughes now playing in "Pals First" at the Yost Broadway theater.

Irene Rich in a scene from "Silken Shackles," screen offering at the West Coast-Walker theater.

YOST BROADWAY THEATER
Edwin Carewe used perfect screen judgment when he cast Lloyd Hughes and Dolores del Rio in the leading roles of his latest production, "Pals First." The picture opened yesterday at the Yost Broadway theater.

It would be impossible to find two other players as exactly suited for the parts they play in this excellent motion picture. Lloyd Hughes as "Danny" Rowland, a "hobo" forger, gives one of the finest portrayals he has yet offered to the screen.
Alec Francis as Dominic Blair, an outcast and a thief who finally discovers the straight and narrow.

is first rate, and George Cooper, third of the pals, as a pseudo Italian count, carries off all the comedy honors.

The story is rich in love interest the sets are beautiful, and the direction is faultless.

Dolores del Rio, latest screen find, enacts her part with marvelous restraint.

WEST COAST-WALKER

Heading the vaudeville at the West Coast-Walker theater tonight and tomorrow are the Royal Venetian Five, "a Venetian musical melange" in instrumental and song numbers rendered with the fervor of an Italian artist. These are Opera singers, who also play violin and guitar with magnetic skill.

McGowan and Knox in "Out of Gas" are a man and a woman in a comedy act with a singing and novelty surprise. They have special numbers that are arranged for them, they will pep you up with their cleverness.

Bob Milliken, "The Prince of Wales," has just returned from a tour of the world, offers a peppy monologue on current events with a couple of songs included. He is to say the least, a real nut comedian.

Scotty Weston is a dancing bellhop who started dancing his way around vaudeville by winning the championship of buck and wing dancers in Scotland.

Ruby Latham and company offer an aerial classic surrounded by tasty scenery and lighting effects. Miss Latham is acknowledged leader of her sex in her particular line of work. One of her feats is to hang suspended by her hands and swing three revolutions of her body without altering the position of her hands.

"Silken Shackles," a picture featuring Irene Rich, is the West Coast-Walker's current screen offering.

YOST THEATER

Not even a fireman will be able to find a technical fault in the manner in which the actual fire scenes in "The Still Alarm," current attraction at the Yost theater, were handled. They are said to be perfect in every detail, for with the exception of William Russell, John T. Murray and Edward Hearn, who impersonate firemen in the picture, every other fire-fighter in the cast is a member of the Los Angeles Fire Department.

Forty firemen were used in these thrilling scenes the men working under the direction of Lawrence B. Andrews, a Los Angeles battalion chief. In the scenes where the horse-drawn apparatus figures all the drivers were veterans of the old days and most of them are nearing retirement.

Today's Anniversaries

1877—Two spans of the great iron bridge over the Missouri river at Omaha was destroyed by a tornado.
1880—The seventh centenary of the founding of the reigning house of Bavaria was celebrated.
1885—The Burgomasters of Revel and Riga were removed by the czar for using the German language.

1886—John P. Swift, of San Francisco was nominated by the Republicans of California for the governorship.
1895—Reopening of trouble between the Bannock Indians and cattlemen in Diamond valley, Colorado.

BRITISH WRITER REAL BOOSTER FOR SANTA ANA

one is stumbling upon some quaint happenings to color life.

"There are many 'quite little things' that one will never forget. Landing at New Orleans and sitting in the station hall waiting for the Los Angeles train, (the time a few days before Christmas), I thought that New Orleans must be the most religious town in the wide world. For everywhere it seemed to me that church bells were ringing and I could picture the people flocking to their churches in response to the church bells, since every church in the town appeared to be calling its flock to divine service. When we went on to the platform to board our train, I found it was the bells of the engines—a novelty to me—that had given me such a good impression of New Orleans.

Thrills on Ride Here

"I certainly got a thrill out of my first ride down to Santa Ana. A colleague brought me down in his car, telling me he knew the most direct route. I am afraid that he deceived both himself and me as to his geographical knowledge, but this had a happy ending, as I was enabled to see Huntington Park, Bell, Downey, Lynwood, Compton, Clearwater, Norwalk, Santa Fe Springs, Brea, Buena Park, Anaheim, Fullerton, Westminster, Garden Grove and Orange on the way down. Of course, I may have mixed up some of the places we took on our way home, but this I do know—we would sight some sign telling us that Santa Ana was 19 miles, take a turn and fly along another road, and after a lapse of time find we were 22 miles away. Then we would reverse again, and "stepping on the gas," put four or five miles of country behind us and find we were really getting nearer Santa Ana, when a board informed us it was only 21 miles to the town of our desire.

"Nearly all the little towns had signs to welcome us to go and live there. One incident I remember in particular. Just after we left Buena Park, we turned into a road my friend remembered distinctly as being a short cut to Santa Ana. For several miles we sped along always on the alert for the next town or village we should strike. For several miles we ran an uneventful course until suddenly, on making another turn, one of those signs that stretch across the road came into view. As soon as it was near enough to see, I read "Buena Park"—eventually we reached Santa Ana.

Air of Prosperity

"Santa Ana is such a clean, well laid out and orderly little town. It has an air of quiet prosperity. There is no fret or worry about life in Santa Ana. Everyone looks happy and contented. Its shops are excellent. There are plenty of delightful places to go and eat and a characteristic of these places is that the folks always seem to be pleased to see you and go out of their way to make you comfortable.

"This year I had had an additional treat in hearing the Santa Ana band, in Birch Park. Santa Ana has reason to be proud of these Thursday evening entertainments and my visit there this time will linger as a pleasant memory.

"When I get back to Los Angeles, I shall certainly miss Santa Ana and think regretfully of the peace and charm that hover around this California town; of the roads that are bordered by neat and pleasing plantations of orange, lemon and walnut trees, through which the sun tries to pierce and, in so doing, makes a beautiful crisscross carpet of light and shade on the ground of soil. As you come out in the more barren country that leads to Santa Ana it seems as though suddenly some magician had touched a desert with his magic and filled it with life, the life of trees, of beautiful vegetation, of vague scents, of pretty sheltered homes—a wonderland created from a desert.

"I should say I like Santa Ana."

There's This "Human Side" To Gasoline and Oil—

A very human one, we think—here in the West—to Union Non-detonating Gasoline and Aristo Motor Oil. And we believe that you'll be interested in it

YOU, probably, don't think much about the gasoline and oil you use. You buy a good grade. One makes your motor go. The other lubricates it. You don't check up very accurately on mileage or on costs. You simply get "ten gallons" or "a quart," and off you go. It's rather impersonal.

And yet a gallon of gasoline and a quart of oil are chock-full of personality! There is the personality of those extremely human beings who are intensely interested in making theirs the best, even if it be by but a shade—and there are people like that in oil companies, just as you may be like that in the business you are in.

Speaking for this Company, we can say that we have hundreds of them—all vibrant personalities and all eager to excel. For when they do excel they rise, and are promoted, and their wives, their children and their friends are proud of them.

You know what it means. It isn't extra money in a salary raise or a large income that you enjoy so much. It is the achievement of which the money is the evidence, and you get the "kick" from that.

So it is with "Union Oil" with Union Oil directors and employees.

They want to make a better gasoline, a better oil, to satisfy a natural desire to work, achieve, surpass, succeed, for it is simply human to do that.

If you could ask any of our chemists, or Union Oil refiners, or research men—the men who handle the processes, or those who check results—about the quality of non-detonating Union Gasoline and non-carbonizing Western ARISTO Motor Oil, their conviction, we believe, would convince you. Their belief would inspire yours. Their enthusiasm makes you enthusiastic.

In them you would find the "personality" in "Union" and "Aristo," for these simple-looking liquids are "the children" of these men.

If you could make one trip through a Union Oil refinery and a research plant, which would remind you of a university, you would never again think of non-detonating Union Gasoline and non-carbonizing Western ARISTO Motor Oil as anything else but intensely human things.

And you would be, as we are, so naturally and logically prejudiced in favor of them that you would use them always in your car thereafter.

This is one of a series of announcements by the Union Oil Company which we believe will be of special interest to all Westerners. Others acquainting you with the development of the oil industry will appear from time to time. Look for them in this publication.

FARM TO FIELDS

HORTICULTURAL EXPERT DISCUSSES SCALE

TUBERCULOSIS IN POULTRY IS GIVEN STUDY

Only Way to Eradicate Disease Is Slaughter of Entire Flock, Is Advice

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—The only satisfactory way to eradicate tuberculosis from poultry is to destroy the entire flock whenever the disease is found to exist, says Dr. T. S. Rich, of the United States department of agriculture.

The general belief has existed that chickens under one year of age seldom develop tuberculosis to the extent of becoming spreaders of the disease. It was thought that culling old birds above that age from the flock would soon eliminate the disease.

Theory is Tested
To test that theory, Dr. Rich's forces entered into a general culling campaign covering all the flocks in one township of Michigan where he is in charge of tuberculosis eradication work.

Since that time, every individual chicken on 151 farms was actually examined, or a total of 15,377. From this number 1494 were removed as culled, and 56 were found to be tuberculous upon post-mortem examination. Three generalized cases were birds under one year of age.

The disease was demonstrated to exist in about 38 per cent of the flocks examined. Dr. Rich concluded that birds under one year of age are a source of danger as well as the older ones and should be removed along with the rest of the flock when infection is discovered.

The extent of the disease in the poultry of the United States and the menace it offers as a means of infecting hogs make it important that this form of tuberculosis be eradicated along with the bovine type.

Avian Type Menaces
Authorities have known for a long time that hogs are readily infected by tuberculous poultry.

When the campaign to eradicate cattle tuberculosis was begun it was not generally realized, however, that the avian type was so prevalent in the corn belt, or that it would be necessary to give it consideration along with the bovine type in preventing the infection of swine.

When a shipment of hogs from Hillsdale county, Michigan, where bovine tuberculosis had been eradicated, was slaughtered at the Buffalo market, quite a number were found to show signs of tuberculosis.

Investigation proved undoubtedly that the source of the infection was diseased poultry on several farms in the county, and further that a large part of the swine infection in that county at present is of the avian type.

WOMEN SEVERE JURORS
LONDON, Aug. 25.—Women may be the "softer sex," but Sir Herbert Nield member of parliament and member of the jury, does not think they are. He demonstrated it in their service as members of juries. "I venture to think that a man is safer in the hands of the bench than he would be in the hands of a present-day jury. One finds the fair sex far more severe than the old-fashioned jury," Sir Herbert declared.

Report Progress In Fight Against Animal Disease

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—With the current progress in eradicating tuberculosis from cattle, a noticeable decline of the same disease among swine is taking place.

This announcement by the bureau of animal industry, United States department of agriculture, is based on field observations and by records of the federal meat inspection service which shows a sharp decline in the loss per hog due to tuberculosis infection.

AGRICULTURAL ATTACHES IN ORIENT URGED

Expansion of the markets of the Orient for American agricultural produce, through the establishment of agricultural attaches in consular offices, is believed by Prof. B. H. Crocheron to be one means of solving the marketing problem of the farmer in this country.

Professor Crocheron, who is Director of agricultural extension at the University of California, has just returned from a six weeks' vacation trip that took him to Japan, China and the Philippines.

"No one dares to eat vegetables grown in China or Japan unless they are cooked, and there are few fresh fruits available," States let- ture, and even the inferior fruits that find their way to the Orient are eagerly sought, especially by the foreign colony. If an effort were made to open these markets, I believe a great amount of produce could be shipped there profitably."

The only American food products found in the Orient were the Sun Maid Raisin packages. Ralph P. Merritt, president of the Sun Maid Raisin company, the co-operative marketing organization of the growers, made a trip to the Orient and personally arranged for the opening of the markets for that product there.

Professor Crocheron believes that fresh fruits and vegetables under refrigeration, could be added, as well as butter and canned milk.

At the present time, however, there is no one who will undertake the work of making arrangements, watching opportunities and in general looking after the matter. For this reason, he urges that agricultural attaches, similar in position to the commercial attaches now at the consulates, be appointed by the United States government.

While much interested in the agriculture of the countries he visited, Professor Crocheron naturally was unable to make more than a superficial study of the situation.

When Bebe Daniels said "yes" to Charley Paddock she didn't know she was becoming engaged to nobility. It wasn't until three weeks later that she learned the "world's fastest man—and lover" is really Sir Charles William Paddock.

Charley was knighted at Paris in 1919 by the king of Montenegro. Since then the king has been lost in the shuffle so Charley doesn't take the title seriously. But Bebe does—she never pass up a title here in Studioville.

Grand opera singers are now being sought in film companies. Warner Brothers have just signed Miss Elman, Efron Zimballist and Harold Bauer. They will be heard by means of the recently perfected vitaphone at the same time they are appearing on the silver sheet.

Despite the fact that Wesley Barry grew from a boy into manhood while in New York, his face is still a "landmark" for movie enthusiasts here. There's Wesley Barry and his wife" was heard on all sides when the young couple dropped in for a dance at the Edgewater club.

Either the feminine picture stars have been spending many hours at the beach or they have discovered a new tan-make-up. At a party given by Lila Lee and James Kirkwood at their beach home all of the women had chestnut complexion. And even at close range it was impossible to distinguish whether the color was real or artificial.

Here is some good news for followers of Theodore Roberts. He told me the other day that he confidently expects to be back in his old place on the screen again within two years.

As a husband, Phillip Smalley was a "flop," so Lois Weber divorced him and married Capt. Harry Ganz. But when it comes to acting, Smalley isn't so bad, so Miss Weber has given him a part in her next picture. Ganz also will be associated in the production of the film. Miss Weber is likely to have her hands full.

When Gilda Gray, America's shimmy queen, arrived here for a personal appearance, she brought four trunks and a handbag. The trunks contained her personal wardrobe and the handbag a yard of printed batik silk—which is all she wears on the stage.

PLANT WIZARD STUDIES IDES IN ATMOSPHERE

Traces Cycle of Wet and Dry Years by Counting Rings on Heart of Trees

SAN ANGELO, Tex., Aug. 25.—H. A. Halbert, West Texas plant wizard who is famous for remarkable results of plant grafting and development, has a peculiar and individual method for making weather predictions.

For a number of years he has issued predictions covering rain periods a year in advance. His predictions are based on the air tides, similar to the ocean tides, caused by the "law of attraction of gravity."

He goes to the heart of an oak tree for many of his predictions. "In an oak tree," Halbert explains, "are rings plainly seen, the wide rings denote the wet years and the narrow rings tell of the dry seasons."

"I have traced back Texas weather 125 years in this manner. There is a weather cycle every decade. Every year ending in the figure seven is a dry one and years ending in zero, one, two and three are the wettest generally."

Halbert's predictions apply to points within 1000 miles of this district. They allow a latitude of 72 hours for rain to fall. These predictions, Halbert claims, would be absolutely true were it not for the air currents which greatly interfere with and often prevent rains from falling at any certain locality by the swirling away of clouds brought in by the air tides.

POULTRY MARKET STUDY
A survey of the live poultry market in New York City, which was started by the United States department of agriculture as a basis for suggesting improvements in the present system and to determine the advisability of the department establishing a market news service on life poultry for the city.

FINDS RAPID ADVANCE
"We may expect that in the future much of the marvelous agricultural development that has taken place in the United States during the last half century will be duplicated to a considerable extent in the temperate regions of South America," says Leon M. Eastbrook, completed two years' study of South American agriculture.

SYNTHETIC ORCHID IMITATIONS OF RARE FLOWERS SOON MAY BE AS CHEAP AS GERANIUMS

Dr. Sprague and a spray of his new orchid gladioli.

SAN DIEGO, Aug. 25.—The high price of Catleya orchids is coming down!

Dr. A. R. Sprague, veteran horticulturist at the Rancho Santa Fe, near here, has developed a new hybrid flower, the orchid gladioli.

The flower cannot be distinguished from a real orchid except by an expert. Its blossoms range from six to eight inches in natural spread of petals.

Furthermore, the orchid gladioli is said to be so prolific that within a few years the bulbs will be as plentiful as anyone could wish. Since the Catleya orchid, which this new bloom resembles, is generally priced at about $4 a bloom at the florist's, this is important.

Right now the new bulbs are extremely valuable, however—so much so that Dr. Sprague sold his first 14 bulbs to florists for $100 each.

PROBLEMS OF THE SOIL

Q. Is there any chance as to variety of eucalyptus to plant near a marshy spot where there has always been some alkali? What chance of success will I have with eucalyptus trees in the soil described?—S. M. O.

A. Eucalyptus trees, depending somewhat upon the variety, will grow in land rather heavily impregnated with alkali. They are often found in places too salty for almost any other tree. The desert gum, E. rudis, is probably the most resistant to alkali, followed by the red gum (E. rostrata), the blue gum (E. globulus), the sugar gum (E. coriaryx), the gray gum (E. teretifolia) and the yate trees (E. cornuta), in the order named. Eucalyptus trees can often be grown in places where heavy deposits of alkali occur if precautions are taken to plant them after heavy rains or irrigations have washed the salts down below the root zone or at least diluted the alkali to a considerable extent. After the roots have become well established and the bark has thickened sufficiently on both root and crown to withstand the corrosive effect of alkali, less irrigation is necessary. Of course it is true that the better the soil is when the trees are becoming established the better the growth will be.

Q. I will appreciate it very much if you will give me directions as to how to plant and care for avocado seeds. When can the plants be budded, in the spring or fall? What sort of seeds ought I to get for planting?—Mrs. L. D.

A. Seeds of the Mexican race, small thin-skinned fruits, are preferred, as the stocks produced by this type of seed are more resistant to the effects of heat and cold than are the Guatemalan or West Indian. Presumably the stock imports somewhat of its sturdy characteristics to the top, also.

The seeds may be kept for a time after removal from the fruit, but should be washed, dried and stored in a cool place. Best results will be obtained if they are planted reasonably soon after removal from the fruit. To make the seed bed use sand and leaf mold, half and half, or a rich soft loam. Plant the seeds with the pointed end up, covering with half an inch or an inch of soil. They will sprout within a few weeks and will be large enough to transplant early in the spring. Budding may be done either in spring or fall, but with spring transplanted seedlings, fall budding is probably best. Budding may also be done almost any time, as a matter of fact, after the seedlings have reached the required size and thoroughly ripened bud wood can be secured.

A number of young avocado trees are being seriously injured by beetles of some sort. The leaves of some are riddled. What spray can I put on? I have not yet seen the beetles, so suppose they work at night.—W. L. D.

A. Earlier in the season, one

Q. Tell me what the rather bad smelling large bell-shaped flower is that grows on low plants along the roadside? I have been told that it was poisonous to children. What is the poisonous about it, the leaves or the flowers?—Mrs. A. W. S.

A. You probably have reference to the Jimson weed or Jamestown weed, as it was first known. It is called by various names in different localities, such as thorn apple, devil's apple, mad apple, etc. All parts of the plant are poisonous to some degree, but the leaves are especially so. Human beings as well as cattle have been poisoned by eating them. The plant is ordinarily repulsive to cattle, as it has a strong odor and a bitter taste, but in very dry years they will often eat weeds that otherwise they would not. Children are occasionally tempted to open the pods in the fall and eat the seeds, sometimes with fatal results.

Jimson weed belongs to the night shade or potato family, a family containing a number of poisonous members. This weed is of some use in medicine, however, producing atropin and hyoscyamin. Scopolamin is also produced from Jimson weed.

Q. What is the insect I am sending you in a little box? I have found these a number of times in the garden, usually under boards, and would like to know if they do any harm to plants.—Mrs. W. L.

A. The specimen you sent is an earwig, a rather common, native species. It is sometimes suspected of feeding on fruit lying on or near the ground, such as strawberries, tomatoes, etc., but what injury it does is largely secondary; that is, by enraging and complete injuries first made by other insects. It belongs to a rather notorious family, however, and a close relative, the European earwig, is very much of a nuisance in parts of Oregon and Washington. This latter earwig eats fruit, meat, vegetables, flowers, tender shoots of beans, potatoes, dahlias, peas, clover, zinnias, morning glories, etc. It crawls into houses, gets into drawers, cupboards, beds, clothing, food, under rugs and in general is an obnoxious pest. No European earwigs have been found in California except in the vicinity of Berkeley.

CLUB BOYS OF COUNTY ENJOY CAMP OSCEOLA

Swimming, Hiking, Eating, Sleeping Complete Round Of Perfect Existence

By RAYMOND ELLIS
Assistant Farm Director

Returning Saturday evening from five days outing at Camp Osceola in the San Bernardino mountains, 35 agricultural boys of Orange county enjoyed this camp one of the most enjoyable experiences of their lives.

Most of them would have liked a longer stay and all voted in favor of another camp for 1927.

Leaving Orange county early Tuesday morning, the boys arrived in camp about 2 p. m. From that time until their departure at 2 p. m. on Saturday, every minute was full of excitement.

Hikes to Jenks lake and Big Meadows were participated in by everyone, while on Friday, J. G. France of San Diego county, took 11 of the larger boys on a hike up Sugar Loaf mountain.

Twice each day an hour was given over to swimming, a diversion that was especially enjoyed after a long hike. Each evening a special campfire program was arranged, with Friday evening capping the climax.

Each tent put on a stunt, which varied from mind reading to an Alaskan dog race. Everyone enjoyed the stunts, and the actors were greeted with cheers as well as jeers. It did not seem to make much difference to the actors whether the cheers were for or against them.

The Orange County Y. M. C. A. should be congratulated on having such a desirable camp location, as well as having such a good management of their kitchens and equipment. The farm boys voted the food the best ever and gave a long cheer for the camp cooks when they left. There were several other boys who cooperated to make the camp a success, and who especially deserve a vote of thanks.

Among these are Mr. and Mrs. William Barnes, of Villa Park, E. W. Campbell, of Garden Grove; S. J. Stanley, of Tustin; Ray L. Howell, of Anaheim; John Ragan, of Villa Park; A. M. Stanley and W. M. Cory, of Santa Ana.

Total consumption of ice cream in the United States last year was 322,729,000 gallons, or more than two gallons for every man, woman and child in the country.

RUM SELLERS. NOT CITIZENS FACE OUSTING

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—Adopting a drastic new policy the federal government today began a roundup of convicted alien bootleggers who have served prison sentences imposed by the courts, to deport them from the country.

George Remus of Cincinnati, one-time "king of the bootleggers," was among the first to fall a victim to this new drive. Announcement that a warrant has been issued for the arrest of Remus, preparatory to his deportation, was made today by Acting Secretary of Labor White.

Hundreds of other bootleggers will be deported if the government succeeds in carrying through its action against Remus, it was stated. Remus is expected to fight deportation in the courts. He has already carried to the supreme court a fight against a jail term he is now serving in Ohio for maintaining a nuisance.

White revealed that a number of similar cases are pending before the department.

Many Not Naturalized
The government's action was regarded as a victory for leading spokesmen of the dry forces, who for several years have demanded that aliens breaking the prohibition law be shipped out of the country.

A huge proportion of the bootleggers brought into the federal courts are of alien birth and many of them have never been naturalized. They have been regarded as immune from deportation, however, because their violations have not been regarded as deportable offenses.

The move to deport Remus and others is based upon the fact that the offenders have been convicted more than once, and the sentences imposed have been more than one year, bringing the cases within the scope of the immigration laws. "Deportation depends upon the circumstances of conviction," White declared. "Many of the bootleggers have been convicted of minor offenses and have served short terms. But we have had a number of cases where the offense was serious, involving a long term, and the offender had served two terms or more."

Action was begun against Remus despite the fact that he claims to have lived in this country about 45 years and to be a citizen through the alleged naturalization of his father in 1882 or 1883. He lacks documentary evidence of this, however, it was said at the department, and the department's search has failed to reveal a record.

'Moral Turpitude'
The department charges that Remus' conviction of violating the dry law, in 1921, constituted conviction "a felony or other crime or misdemeanor involving moral turpitude." It also asserts that Remus is "likely to become a public danger."

A third allegation to support the deportation action is that Remus entered the country by means of false and misleading statement. This is based upon Remus' action in representing himself as an American citizen when he re-entered the United States after visiting Canada in 1923.

After the arrest warrant has been served Remus will be given a hearing before an immigration inspector, White said. The result of such a hearing is subject to consideration here by an immigration board of review and the secretary of labor, Remus also may appeal to the courts.

He was given the Ohio jail sentence at the same time he was sentenced to Atlanta for dry law violations.

MURPHY STOCK COMPANY WILL PLAY AT ORANA

The Murphy Comedians, a stock company of 15 players, started the staging of plays last Sunday in the Orana theater, at the intersection of North Main street and Chapman avenue, and will continue with plays every night indefinitely, with the object in view of later purchasing the theater, according to O. E. Ohmsted, manager and partner of Horace Murphy.

The current play is "Fair and Warmer," a farce comedy. The bill will be changed weekly. Beginning next Sunday the company will put on "Rarin' to Go," a comedy by Robert Sherman.

The Murphy comedians were in Santa Ana several years ago and at that time played to capacity crowds. They expect a very generous patronage in the Orana theater, Ohmsted said.

The company includes C. William Booth, James Morley, Jimmie Malone, Herbert Shelley, Howard Foster, James Gordon, Edmonda Murphy, Martha Gibbs, Katherine Hathaway, Myrtle King.

A feature of the plays will be music by a five-piece orchestra of women musicians. There are several talented singers in the orchestra, who will be heard in solo numbers.

Women teachers in Japan have asked of the minister of education that they should be put on the same level as men teachers in the primary schools with the same scale of salaries.

For more than fifty years Mrs. Gardner Emmons has been a regular summer resident at one of the popular beaches in Maine, but in that time she has been in the water only once.

Capital Letter

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—Senator William E. Borah behaves exactly like a man conducting a presidential campaign.

Borah didn't adjourn when congress did. His offices on Capitol hill are bustling, if anything, than ever. The senator isn't always in them, but his official staff remains on the job. When Borah himself is away, it's because he's making a speech somewhere.

If there isn't something significant in all these speeches, all political Washington is mistaken.

They're too numerous not to mean more than that Borah simply has something to say. Besides, the Idaho senator has a whole tour of them laid out in advance. Why such unprecedented activity at a time when he isn't running for anything? His senatorial term doesn't expire until 1931.

A senator's speech making generally is confined mainly to the senate chamber and his home state. Occasionally he may get an invitation, as a big man, to address some dinner or public gatherings, but ordinarily he doesn't make a political event of it. Neither does he keep hammering away at it day in and day out, as Borah is doing.

During a campaign in which no candidacy of his own keeps him at home, looking after his own fences, he may also be drafted for a little party oratory, but he seldom wanders far outside the general section of the country where he lives, for there's where it's assumed he knows issues and local likings and dislikes best.

Borah's speeches aren't party speeches. They're strictly Borah speeches, and many of the views he expresses are not his party's views at all.

Moreover, his tour is taking him all over the United States.

It's hard to imagine that an Idaho senator would devote a strenuous summer, in this year of grace, to the upbuilding of a national reputation for himself if he had no object in mind but to make himself solid with the Idaho voters in anticipation of the campaign of 1930.

Nor can the whole thing be a mere accident. The Borah program bears all the earmarks of having been painstakingly thought out in advance.

Of course the senator makes no definite announcement that he's a presidential aspirant. This would be altogether too soon. But every indication is that he's engaged in preparing the soil with a view to getting the speediest possible results, if and when he does decide that the moment has arrived for him to plant his candidacy there.

The question arises: Does Borah really think he stands much chance of getting the regular Republican presidential nomination in 1928?

He can hardly think he does—except by some extraordinary fluke. True, President Coolidge's popularity, in some sections, isn't what it was in 1924. If it continues to wane, perhaps he can't be renominated, but it doesn't follow that a near radical, like Borah, can supplant him. That would mean an almost revolutionary shift in public sentiment.

In the middle west it's possible—perhaps it's come—but hardly in the conservative east.

The point is: How about an independent Republican ticket, something like La Follette's in 1924?

Borah has strength in the west. As a dry, he might prove to have strength in the south, especially against a candidate like Al Smith.

Nobody much thinks he'd win at the polls, but perhaps he could throw the election into the house of representatives, and then—who knows?

VETERANS HEAR 'OFFICE' TALKS BY CANDIDATES

Candidates in virtually all the races told of their qualifications and hopes before a small crowd of ex-service men, gathered in the American Legion home, last night, at a meeting of the Veterans Non-Partisan Political League.

Although the attendance was small, the enthusiasm of the candidates was not, and speech after speech rang out in the assembly room of the building as each candidate's name was called and he laid a dollar on the table for the privilege of speaking.

Money collected from the would-be office holders will be used to pay the American Legion for the use of the hall and for the lights. It was explained. The American Legion had nothing whatsoever to do with the meeting and their organization to the ex-service men's organization was the same as to any other organization, J. W. Markel, vice commander of the Santa Ana post, announced.

The talks last night were termed as "down right nice." There was no "mud slinging" and virtually all of the candidates said their opponents were "good fellows."

Candidates were allowed to address the ex-service men after the regular business session of the organization had been held. The veterans endorsed the Swing-Johnson bill and proposition No. 1 on the November ballot, calling for a bond issue of $200,000 for the erection of homes for men who fought in the late war.

The vote on both issues was unanimous.

URGE FAIR GROUND AS CIVIC SITE

orange show management in his home town.

Horses Will Race

John Ragan, of Villa Park, spoke of the fine horses, including Easter Star and Hottentot, which have been entered in the horse show. He was enthusiastic over the running races to be held over the quarter mile track, giving the spectators opportunity to see the steeds come down the home stretch twice.

President H. A. Lake, of Garden Grove, outlined the extent of the permanent construction at the fair grounds and pointed out to the editors that the success or failure of the fair this year rested in their hands. He said the fair board hoped to make such a success of the affair this year and next year, that the board of supervisors would purchase the site as a county civic and recreational center.

Samuel Meyer, editor of the Newport News and president of the Orange County Press club, presided.

A chicken dinner was served by the members of the Garden Grove Women's club. The dinner was served in the dining hall, to be used by the club during the fair for serving meals.

magician, or if a million and one other things were the cause, the man included in his prayers that night the plea that something hurry up and happen—the rest of them disappear or all of them return before his family returned.

Three nights later, the man came home to find one little gold fish swimming around in the big bowl. Now it is almost time for the man's wife and daughters to be returning and he doesn't know what to say to make them believe his story. Will his wife think that after 20 years something in his mind has broken? Will his daughters turn up their noses and look wise? The man said that he hoped if any one was trying to play a joke on him that he would be kind and return the fish.

POE'S STORIES: The Oblong Box

Sketches by Redner
Synopsis by Braucher

While the storm was at its height the ship sprung a leak. Passengers prepared to take to the boats. The long boat was put off with most of the passengers, 14 waiting to take the small boat at the stern.

Finally, when it was apparent that the boat would soon sink, the 14 passengers, including Wyatt and the artist took to the boat.

The party had barely put out from the ship when Wyatt demanded that the captain return for the oblong box. It was impossible.

Wyatt insisted. The captain, thinking him mad, ordered others to seize him, but Wyatt was over the side in a flash, and with superhuman effort, drew himself up to the sinking ship by means of a rope which had been left over the side. In a moment he appeared on deck with the box. Tying a rope to the box and his belt, he sank into the sea.

The WOMAN'S DAY

By Allene Sumner

ROME, Italy, Aug. 25.—A great cataclysmic tragedy has occurred unto the author, gentle reader, here in the city where slumber the tormented gents of old!

All because I am not mistress of many tongues.

The tale runneth thus! Pansy Herring Pretzel and I have gazed upon the colosseum, and seen the prisons where the martyred Christians lay, having wept at the graves of Keats and Shelley, and grown clammy in the gruesome bone-strewn labyrinths of the catacombs, decided that the time had come when the life cultural should be refreshed by that one and only spruce known to woman-kind as a shampoo, cut and curl!

Our dark-orbed pension porter got our meaning (or seemed to) and offered to write for us in his native tongue a message to a certain "coiffeur pour dames" which he guaranteed would result in our coming forth "multo bello."

He wrote, "We went. We gave the note to a beaming genouflecting hairdresser.

All unwitting of the fate about to befall me, I was prepared for the shearer, with much tissue paper and scalloped toweling tucked under my chins. The snip-snip of the shears began and continued right merrily whilst I was engrossed in my two weeks old home newspaper.

What beheld my gentle gaze when I suddenly gazed into the mirror? None less than what once was me, but now was but half me. The other half was a bare and naked ostrich egg; in other words, my own scalp as bare of any hair as a toadstool is bare of lace ruffles.

I howled, I wailed, I moaned and shrieked. It seems that the gracious porter had ordered that I be clipped, and clipped I was.

When Caesar gazed upon the Rubicon he could either go on or go back. So now, I could either remain half-shaven or whole-shaven. I chose the latter. I had been taught in by childhood "when a task is once begun, never leave it till it's done." I decided that the spectacle of one neat bald ostrich egg would shock the populace less than a hybrid object half-egg and half-nanny goat.

I purchased, to the accompaniment of my sobs, two clusters of red-gold curls, having always yearned for red hair, but never hitherto owning a shaven pate on which to hang it. The skillful hair dresser created some effective little hooks of courtplaster which he attached neatly to my ear-tops, to which the curls were pinned, whence they coyly wave in the breeze.

I wear my hat indoors and out. I explain that I am afraid I will be stricken by the sun's hot rays if I take it off.

They say that my tresses will soon grow out. But I have doubts. If the artist will draw a picture of a nice purple eggplant, you will see exactly how I look. The purple represents sunburn, and the untrimmed eggplant is the rest of me. What culture a girl does get with travel!

This is just a shining example of the value of speaking many tongues. Seriously, however, if you know not one word of anything but your native speech, do not be afraid to stray from the home garden. A trip into many lands emphasizes above all other things the comparative needlessness of language. One talks with hands everywhere.

One enters a shop, points at the object desired, and the clerk writes down the price. Thank goodness for the near-universal use of the arabic numeral.

Some few mishaps will happen. One, for instance, may get weiners when pointing to that on the menu card which looks like chicken. But then a hot dog by any other name will taste as good!

Do not scold the little books on ask at most any book store which tell you how to ask for what you want and how to get it in any language! And don't take the pronunciation marks too seriously! All Europe knows these little books as a mother knows her erring child!

The Little Rollo abroad merely points to that line in French or Italian or Esperanto or Yiddish which says "from what end, please, does the train go?" and the same-in-every-tongue beckoning hand answers!

And the words one picks up in a week! We laugh now, at those rank amateurs who must use the books, and we ask prices and pay our bills in native tongue like old birds!

Just Folks by Edgar A. Guest

FAME IS NOT FOR WOMAN

"Fame is not for woman," Once wistful Mary said, "Tis hers to make the beds and bake."

The daily loaf of bread, Tis hers to stitch the dreary seam, And sweep the dusty floor, 'Tis hers, however she may dream, To wait beside the door.

"For man is all the glory, For woman all the care, Tis hers to face the commonplace And small reward is there."

"Tis hers to hear the kettle sing And keep the oven hot, But when she does some lovely thing It quickly is forgot."

"Fame is not for woman," Once wistful Mary said, "Tis hers through life to play the wife."

And put her babes to bed, Yet Jesus was the son she bore, And, oh, so sweet His fame, That all the world forever more Will worship Mary's name!

BEAUTY CHATS

SOFT, FLUFFY HAIR

There is one difficulty about the fashion of wearing felt hats winter and summer. Although they are soft and attractive and very becoming, they are so heating to the scalp that they will ruin the health of the hair if they are worn too much, and in any case they will make the hair sticky and greasy in about half the time it normally takes.

This is a serious difficulty, because short hair gets greasy twice as soon as long; so much so that most women with short hair to keep to shampoo every week to keep their heads nice looking. Once a week is really too often, but it won't hurt the hair if a little oil is rubbed into the scalp the night before the washing. In fact, in that case it is beneficial to shampoo frequently, for short hair does get dirty quickly, and this method keeps it from getting dry and dandruffy.

But if the hair packs closely to the head and becomes greasy a few days after washing, as it often will when felt hats are worn, you must use a dry shampoo. You had best buy a large tin of powdered orris root, which won't cost much, which is fragrant, cleansing and which will not cling to the hair. And be sure your hair brush has thick, long bristles closely set in firm little bunches. Without such a brush you cannot take the powder from the hair.

Sprinkle the orris root on generously; if you can't get it in sifter-top cans, empty a talcum tin and pour it into that. Rub the hands through the hair to spread the powder and then brush it out. Occasionally, wipe off the brush on an old towel. You'll see then how much dust and grease the powder takes out with it, for the towel will show you yellow-brown marks from the brush. After 10 minutes, the hair should be clean.

Menus for the Family

BREAKFAST—Orange juice, cereal, thin cream, puffy omelet, graham and raisin muffins, milk, coffee.

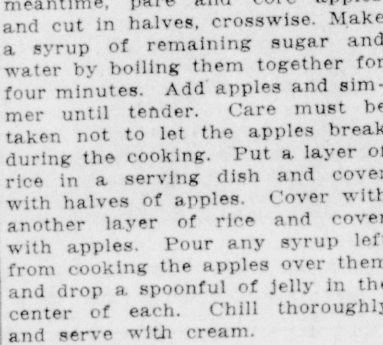

LUNCHEON—Cream of tomato soup, croquettes, apples with rice, lemonade.

DINNER—Salisbury steak with baked bananas, rice potatoes, jelly, cabbage salad, huckleberry pie, bran bread, milk, coffee.

Very often the dessert planned for a luncheon for young children furnishes much nourishment. In this meal in particular the dessert of rice and apples served with sugar and cream makes almost a full meal for a child under 6 years of age. With the cream of tomato soup and crisp croquettes the diet is ideal.

Apples With Rice One-fourth cup rice, 2 cups milk, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 2 eggs, 1-2 cups sugar, 1 cup boiling water, 6 apples, currant jelly.

Cook rice in milk and salt in double boiler until tender. Beat eggs well with 1-2 cup sugar and stir into rice mixture. Cook until thick, 10 or 15 minutes. In the meantime, pare and core apples and cut in halves, crosswise. Make a syrup of remaining sugar and water by boiling them together for four minutes. Add apples and simmer until tender. Care must be taken not to let the apples break during the cooking. Put a layer of rice in a serving dish and cover with halves of apples. Cover with another layer of rice and cover with apples. Pour any syrup left from cooking the apples over them and drop a spoonful of jelly in the center of each. Chill thoroughly and serve with cream.

The MAGIC SPICE CAKE ---A Fable

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

Once upon a time there was a city family that was like a million other city families. It paid no attention to its neighbors on the north or on the south or on the east or on the west.

It did not love its neighbors as itself—nor did the neighbors love anybody else but themselves. The community spirit of the entire block was about as warm as the bricks in the houses that stood stiffly on each side of the street.

Then something happened to this particular family. The people next door on the right moved out, and another family moved in. The affair was of little importance, but one day a month later the bell rang and the maid brought something up and the maid brought something up and the maid brought something up and the maid brought something up and the maid brought something up.

The new lady next door handed this in and said she hoped you would like it," said the maid. "It's a spice cake."

"For goodness sake!" cried Madame lying down her pen. "Does she think we're starving?" Then she added a bit acidly. "Marie, I don't know a thing about these people. Are they trying to buy my recognition with a cake?"

"Oh, no! I'm sure not," said Marie hastily. "They are from some nice and kind. They're from some smaller place and they are the friendliest, nicest people I ever saw. You see, in smaller places folks have neighbors."

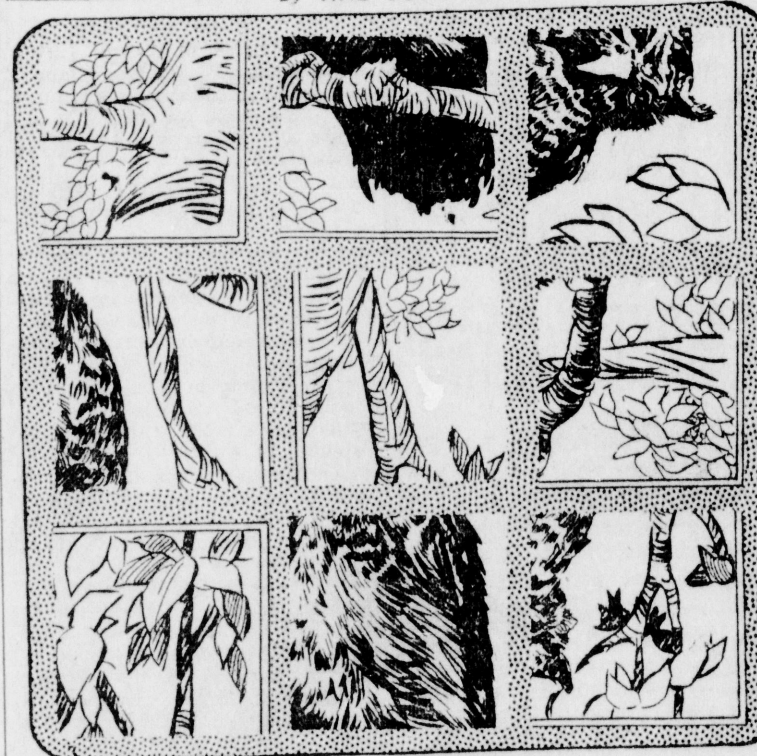

Suddenly Madame smiled. "Of course," she exclaimed. "I'll go right in. I ought to be ashamed of myself. We city people get so frozen we forget to be human." And in she went.

The bricks on the block are no longer cold. The neighbors all know each other now. A spirit of friendliness and hominess has crept in that would never have been thought of had the "new lady" from a "smaller place" not taken the time to do somebody a kindness.

NEWS FROM ORANGE COUNTY TOWNS

SAYS WATER PROSPECTS IN ORANGE BRIGHT

ORANGE, Aug. 25.—Water prospects for Orange are exceedingly bright if financial arrangements can be made to care for the installation of new pumps and other equipment in the wells already owned by the city and the drilling of an auxiliary well on city property in the eastern part of the city, according to a report made to the board of trustees by Trustee Alfred Leech at yesterday's meeting.

Leech, who is chairman of the water development committee, based his statement on the fact that two recent wells drilled in the vicinity of city owned property are flowing nearly twice as much water as the city is now getting. The Santa Ana Valley Irrigation company's well at Cambridge street and Santiago creek, which is producing 243 inches of water, and the new well of the El Modena Water company at McPherson, which was worked up to a maximum production of 250 inches at an 800-foot level, were cited by Leech as examples.

Leech estimated that the city could install new equipment necessary in the old wells and drill a new well for a maximum cost of $30,000. No action was taken by the board.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Forster entertained a few friends and relatives at a picnic in San Juan canyon Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stillwell and children, of El Segundo, were guests of Mrs. Harry Barnes, of McKinley avenue, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Forster are leaving Thursday on a motor trip to San Francisco and Lake Tahoe.

Mrs. W. Gray, of El Toro, is a guest of Mrs. William McGee.

Mrs. Harlow Halliday visited her cousin, Mrs. Lawrence O'Meara, in Los Angeles, Friday to Sunday. While there, she attended the wedding of her niece, Miss Leora Lindsey, to Thomas Driscoll. The wedding took place at 7:30 a. m. Saturday at St. Anselmo's church.

Harold Carson and Miss Gladys Spain have announced their marriage, which took place on June 23. Mrs. Carson taught in the grammar school last year and Mr. Carson has been connected with the Richfield station here.

Cotton Crop In Good Condition

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 25.—Although the condition of California's cotton crop, as of August 18, shows a decline of four points from the last report, it is the best showing of any cotton section in the United States, according to figures compiled by the state department of agriculture.

The cotton in this state is now reported at 94 per cent of normal, compared with 98 per cent on August 1; 93 per cent on August 16 of last year, and a three-year average of 88 on this date.

New Mexico, with 88 per cent, is the nearest state to California.

SIDEWALKS TO BE INSTALLED ON 2 STREETS

ORANGE, Aug. 25.—Sidewalks were ordered installed, in response to petitions, on East Chapman avenue between Jameson and Waverly streets, on the north side, and on West Walnut avenue between Olive and Glassell streets, by the city board of trustees yesterday.

The petitions were signed by the majority of the property owners interested. The work must be done within 90 days, or an improvement district will be formed, according to the board's decision.

The board approved a proposed subdivision of block E of the Olive Heights tract by the Olive Improvement company. The tract in question lies between Main street, Olive avenue, Magnolia avenue and Santiago boulevard and consists of five lots. The local board was compelled to act on the matter by reason of a state law making it necessary that any subdivision within three miles of an incorporated city be approved by that city. K. V. Wolff and L. P. Channing, officers of the company, presented the proposition to the board.

Following an investigation of the matter, the board refused to permit the installation of a radio loud speaker in the Plaza. The loud speaker had been advocated by the chamber of commerce.

In response to an appeal from Thomas Green and B. F. Richards, who have subdivided a tract on Main street and Bush street, and are under bond to complete all improvements, the city authorized the grading and graveling of all of the street and all of Almond avenue between Pepper street and Bush street.

Jose Lopez, Anaheim contractor, who was granted a contractor's license at $40 per year recently, appeared to protest the charge, alleging that the city was discriminating between outside and local contractors. The matter was tabled until investigation can be made.

Local contractors pay $25 per annum, or $6.25 per quarter.

An investigation of the city's water supply was ordered before action be taken on an application for a water connection, made by Andrew Meyer, West Collins avenue resident. Meyer is outside the city limits.

An alley located between Shaffer and Harwood streets on North Almond avenue, was ordered closed upon the payment to the city of $75 by J. L. Lewis Jr.

The assessment of $5284.58 for sewer installation on La Veta Ave. was ordered approved. The assessment must be paid in 20 days, according to C. C. Bonebrake, street superintendent.

That culverts will be installed at the six street intersections seemed certain, when the board ordered the street superintendent to obtain estimates on materials to be used in their construction, to be presented at the next meeting. The intersections listed are as follows: Walnut avenue and Handy street, Sycamore avenue and Batavia street, Palm avenue and Batavia street, Main street and Maple avenue, and Batavia street and Maple avenue.

MRS. FROST IS RETURNED AS W. C. T. U. HEAD

ORANGE, Aug. 25.—Re-election of Mrs. Charles Frost, president, and Mrs. Pearl K. Hess, vice president, featured the meeting of the local Woman's Christian Temperance Union yesterday at the Methodist Episcopal church. Other officers elected were Mrs. J. E. Park, recording secretary; Mrs. Ora Benson, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Maude Glanville, treasurer.

Mrs. Frost stated that the interest of the W.C.T.U. would be centered during the next few weeks upon the elections, both primary and finals. The principal effort of members will be directed towards informing themselves upon the qualifications of the various candidates and upon impressing upon people the necessity of voting, she said.

Next Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock, the Loyal Temperance Legion, a unit of the W.C.T.U., will meet for a rally at the Methodist Episcopal church.

Plans are being laid for the attendance of the members of the local union at the county convention, to be held in the First Methodist church, Fullerton, September 3. It is reported that the convention will convene at 10 a. m.

Yesterday's program was furnished by Mrs. C. A. McGill and Mrs. George Fuersterman, who sang a duet, accompanied by Miss Cathleen Fuersterman, pianist.

Miss Nickel, of Orange, presented a declamation entitled, "Wisdom." Mrs. W. B. Tedford, Santa Ana, reviewed political candidates.

Suspect Is Not Dark Strangler

MARYSVILLE, Calif., Aug. 25.—Raymond Escobar, who gave himself up to police here, explaining that he feared he might do harm to someone, is not the "dark stranger" of six fiendish murders of California women, according to John Spradling, Sutter county rancher.

Spradling told police that Escobar had worked for him at his ranch at various times during the last four years and that Escobar was at work on the ranch during the various times the "dark stranger" struck.

Escobar is being held in the Sutter county hospital insane ward for treatment.

Rings were originally used not as articles of adornment, but as symbols of slavery.

Mother Colony Represented at Water Meeting

ANAHEIM, Aug. 25.—Thirteen representative Anaheim residents, business men, city officials and others, attended a meeting of the Tri-County Reformation committee, held in the Mission inn, Riverside, last night for the purpose of discussing a $1,000,000 reforestation appropriation from Congress.

Members of the water conservation committee and boards of supervisors of Orange, Riverside and San Bernardino counties also attended and took an active part in the meeting.

Those who attended from Anaheim were George W. Reid, secretary of the Anaheim Chamber of Commerce; J. J. Dwyer, Lotus H. Loudon, Floyd McCracken, Dr. Gustave Reich, E. A. Yungbluth, Henry Adams, H. N. White, Fred Backus, J. W. Frick, L. E. Miller, William Grafton, A. Curtis Case and Carl Leonard.

The commission has jurisdiction over all of the state's public utilities with the exception of the municipally owned utilities and fixes rates for 1573 corporations, the speaker declared.

The commission is composed of seven examiners who travel about the state continually making investigations and its engineering department includes 125 employees, Whitwell stated.

"Government regulation of private enterprise, though comparatively new in the United States, is not new but dates back to fundamental English law," he said. "It became an established principle in the United States some years ago, when the supreme court of the state of Illinois ruled that all businesses that have to do with public utilities come under the jurisdiction of the police power of the state."

"This principle was gradually expanded until now congress has taken over this jurisdiction and regulation of public utilities has become a matter of federal concern," he said.

L. A. BOY HELD ON AUTO THEFT CHARGE

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Aug. 25.—A Los Angeles youth is in the Huntington Beach jail today, held on a charge of stealing an automobile, according to a report from the local police department.

The youth and a friend were arrested yesterday by the Wilshire branch of the Los Angeles department. The two youths were said to have been riding in a car stolen from the local oil field and belonging to Tom Taylor, of Fellows.

The two youths were brought to Huntington Beach yesterday by Officers John Stanton and A. E. Bannister. The friend was released when he confessed to taking the car from Huntington Beach, according to police. The asserted thief will be turned over to juvenile authorities today.

Jasper Sams, 47, of this city, was arrested last night by Officer A. E. Bannister on a charge of being intoxicated. He will appear today before City Recorder C. W. Warner.

WATER IS THE ISSUE

Water is Southern California's greatest economic problem. Naturally, therefore, water becomes an issue in any matter in which opposition to logical solution of the problem arises.

The likelihood of the construction of a high dam across the Colorado river brought about, in 1925, a plan for solving the problem by bringing Colorado river water to Southern California.

When Harry Chandler, of the Los Angeles Times, and the power companies began fighting that proposal, because of personal interests, water became a political issue. The Richardson administration joined with the Chandler and power interests, and the Metropolitan Water bill, which offered a legal way of forming a district to bring the water to us, was defeated. That was in April, 1925. That is why water is still a political issue.

Governor Richardson, in his campaign, has not said one word that pledges him to aid the passage of the Metropolitan Water bill, which is designed to help bring water from the Colorado river to us. The reason why he does not is that, to give any such pledge would also be an endorsement of the Swing-Johnson bill, which includes the all-American canal feature.

If C. C. Young is elected governor—and it now appears that he will be—he will use his influence to aid the passage of the Metropolitan Water bill. Then, if any city in Orange county desires to get water from the Colorado river, it can join the district. If it doesn't want to do so, it can stay out. The situation in relation to municipal water supply will be the same as it was in relation to a joint outfall sewer. None of the cities concerned in the original project invited any other city to come in. It has developed, however, that every community, including one that is not incorporated, within reach of the outfall has taken advantage of the opportunity.

For water alone, Orange county should give its vote to C. C. Young.

COSTA MESA'S PROGRESS

That Costa Mesa's chamber of commerce is giving consideration to incorporation as a municipality brings to our minds the fact that Costa Mesa has made a remarkable growth in the past five or six years. It was but a brief span of years since Costa Mesa was a sidetrack on the Santa Ana-Newport Beach railroad, where cars stopped occasionally to gather up a crop of barley or hay. It is quite a different place today. It is an enterprising community, deeply interested in the public affairs of Orange county, ambitious to go ahead, anxious to make its place on the map brighter and better and bigger.

It was only a short time ago that the name, Costa Mesa, was adopted. It was indeed a happy selection of a name. Costa, for coast, shows that the place has advantages by its nearness to the ocean and potential high values by reason of its position upon the edge of Newport bay. The word "Mesa" gives us a thought concerning its soil and productivity. And those who know the people of Costa Mesa speak always of its high standards of citizenship. Without attempting to argue the merits of incorporation, we haven't a doubt but should Costa Mensans decide to incorporate that incorporation will be another useful tool in the working out of the community's destiny.

RADIATION AND POPULATION

The sun itself may be the real birth-controller. So thinks no less an authority than Dr. Charles A. Bentley, an English professor and director of public health in India.

"Eugenists today are entirely overlooking the question of solar radiation and its influence on births," he says.

At any rate, he holds that regulation of birth is "as far beyond man's control as the tides." He is inclined to think that there are cycles in birth, as there appear to be in plant crops, and that "the year in which one is born may be as important as who one's parents are and what one's environment is."

This sounds almost like astrology, and yet isn't astrology. Maybe it isn't science, either. But when you think it over, perhaps it doesn't seem so queer, after all, that the sun, the celestial power plant which sends this material world all the life it has, should have more to do with human life than most of us have ever imagined.

Thus new interest is lent to the scientific efforts now being made in many parts of the world to discover new facts regarding solar radiations. The sun is far more than merely something to look at in his rising and setting, to welcome in the spring and shun in midsummer.

MINIMUM IN BREATHING

Houdini, the professional magician, accomplishes the seeming miracle of surviving an hour and a half in a six-and-one-half foot coffin, tightly sealed, just to show he can do it. The "trick," he explains, is to take very short, even breaths, living on the air in the coffin when the occupant enters it, but conserving it to the utmost.

By breathing normally he would use the air all up in a couple of minutes. By breathing slightly, he ekes it out and makes it suffice. It is the same as the food principle of short rations, by which men threatened with starvation survive by eating very little over a prolonged period instead of eating normally while the food lasts.

So it is proved that a human being, without trance, hypnotism or magic of any kind, can live for an hour and a half on almost no air. But it would be very unfortunate if this demonstration should lead anyone to make a practice of scant breathing.

Houdini was probably able to perform his stunt all the better from the fact that he is a man of liberal chest development and accustomed to deep breathing. That gave him the vitality to endure breath privation, just as a well nourished man might endure hunger longer than one ill nourished.

There are eastern fakirs and mystics who make a mysterious art of breathing, professing to get along with little breath, or to accomplish wonders, physical and mental, by their precise method of inhalation and exhalation. Whether there is anything in their claims or not, this much is certainly true for ordinary persons: The deeper they breathe, and the more air they get—especially fresh air—the better.

Air is life. The deep breather is the vigorous person. Swimmers, who need great vigor, always have big chest capacity, and use it. Miss Ederle is a good example.

Of course the Old World is sadly behind the times. Sweden, for example, has 45 per cent of her farms electrified for light and power, against 3 per cent in the United States.

North Claims Bigger Vote

San Francisco Chronicle

Analysis of the registration of California voters this year, now complete, destroys the common assumption that Southern California holds the majority of the voters. The figures show the greater number of registered voters north of the Tehachapi. Southern California—the counties of Santa Barbara, Ventura, Los Angeles, Orange, San Diego, Imperial, Riverside and San Bernardino, with Inyo thrown in—has registered 873,941 out of a total State registration of 1,854,471. The registration north of the Tehachapi is 980,530, or 106,589 more than the Southern California total.

There's no getting around these official figures. And just to illustrate how great is the disparity between the northern and southern registration, you can even go so far as to transfer Kern, Kings and San Luis Obispo counties to the Southern California column and the northern total will still be the greater.

Add the 48,932 registered voters in Kern, Kings and San Luis Obispo to the Southern California registration of 873,941 and you have 922,873. Take that 48,932 away from the Northern California total of 980,530 and you still have 931,548—or 8625 more registered voters than in the augmented Southern California column.

This holds even more strongly in the Republican registration, which totals 1,262,480 for the State. Southern California registered 558,238 of these. California north of the Tehachapi registered 704,192 Republicans.

You could present all the Republicans of Kern, Tulare, Kings, Fresno and San Luis Obispo counties to the Southern California registration total and there would still be 2434 more Republicans registered in what is left of Northern California.

The oft-repeated assertion, therefore, that the majority of the voters live in Southern California will not hold water. The opposite is the truth. In politics, both from the general point of view and from the Republican point of view, Northern California still carries the guns.

Nor can we get away from the natural conclusion that the registration figures show the greater part of California's population to be north of the Tehachapi.

Cummins Left $50,000

Long Beach Sun

It is a satisfaction to reflect that while the country is humiliated by exposures of enormous expenditures in primary elections in several states, it has had few scandals arising from the abuse of public office for private gain. Both statutory and moral law have been well observed in most instances. The public service, take it as a whole, is on a high plane of integrity.

For example, the will of the late Senator Cummins reveals an estate of $50,000, which is nothing more than was saved out of his official pay and the small investments that paid him to make. Yet Senator Cummins had a long, active and useful career. He served in the Iowa House of Representatives, was governor three terms, was elected to fill the unexpired term of Senator Allison and three times elected for full senatorial terms. The case of the Iowa senator is not unusual. In general, American public men who have died rich made their money before they entered public life.

NOSE OR THROAT INFECTION MAY BRING EAR TROUBLE

When there is an infection of the nose or throat the bacteria sometimes get into the ear behind the eardrum through the eustachian tubes, the passages leading from the mouth and nose cavities into the ear. Therefore many infections of the ear may be prevented by properly cleansing infected noses and throats with mildly antiseptic and alkaline sprays and washes.

Emphasis must be placed on the word "properly" because such washes as generally applied force fluid, pus and bacteria into the ear. These nasal douches should never be taken with any but the most gentle pressure, perhaps slightly snuffling the warm, alkaline fluid into the nose.

The early diagnosis of infection of the ear is important if inflammation of the mastoid bone, behind the ear and contiguous to the brain is to be prevented. The ears should always be examined if a child is ill and has fever. The baby may not complain of pain in the ear but in the abdomen or elsewhere, yet when the physician examines the ear drum it is found to be bulging and tender.

The presence of fever, a bulging drum and the symptoms mentioned is sufficient reason for the physician to incise the ear drum to save the hearing of the child and to prevent burrowing of the infected pus into the mastoid region.

When the diagnosis and the proper treatment of an infected ear are delayed, the results are likely to be extremely serious. In a period of six and one-half years, 800 persons with mastoiditis were operated on in the infirmary at Leeds, England.

In one hundred and forty-seven of these cases there were such complications as abscess of the brain, inflammation of the coverings of the brain or meningitis, and severe abscesses of the bone around the mastoid cells. When these complications occur the death rate is high because treatment is most difficult. Here as in all other medical conditions early diagnosis and prevention are far better than attempts at cure.

The advantages accruing through prevention of infection of the ear, through early release of pus when infection occurs, through early operation on the mastoid before the complications mentioned have intervened, are so obvious, that little discussion seems necessary. But human beings are careless and inclined to procrastinate.

The British authorities insist that the need for education to an appreciation of the danger signal in chronic infection of the middle ear is equal to the amount of education now being given to the importance of early diagnosis in inflammation of the appendix or in cancer.

Trying to Head Him Off

The Happy Life

New York Times

When such an authority on the happy life as Viscount Grey gives advice, it is well to listen. Talking to the young men of Epsom college on Founders' day, he urged them not to let the motor car deprive them of the use of their legs.

Also he warned against easy forms of entertainment, cinema shows for example, because they undermine the habit of developing hobbies and of otherwise creating amusement by thought and research. The pleasures which counted most, he said, were those to which character contributed. Ready made pleasures were easy come and easy go, leaving no lasting impression. He thought that too much time might be given to the radio infatuation.

"The tendency of modern life was to absorb so much that they neglected physical fitness, which ought to be as much a matter of pride and mental fitness."

Walking and cycling were recommended as on the whole the best of outdoor sports. A middle aged man should be able to walk twenty miles a day and cycle fifty. Viscount Grey gave no figures for the youngsters he was addressing. As a hobby natural history should be added, he thought, to sweeten the way. "You cannot study the commonest things in outdoor life without finding them interesting," he said. Those who cultivated natural history "had a precious possession which made for happiness in life." He himself has always been a great bird lover, and once he exchanged notes with Theodore Roosevelt.

The American who lends himself always to quotation to support Grey of Fallodon is Emerson. "Can you hear," he asks, "what the morning says to you and believe that? Can you bring home the summits of Wachusett, Greylock and the New Hampshire hills?" He counsels the man settling in the country "to open the face of the earth to himself by a little knowledge of nature, or a great deal, if he can; of birds, plants, rocks, astronomy; in short the act of taking a walk." The habit, he says, "will draw the sting out of frost, dreariness out of November and March and the drowsiness out of August."

ROSE DARK THE SOLEMN SUNSET

Rose-dark the solemn sunset
That holds my thoughts of thee;
With one star in the heavens
And one star in the sea.

On high no lamp is lighted,
Nor where the long waves flow,
Save the one star of evening
And the shadow far below.

Light of my life, the darkness
Comes with the twilight dream,
Thou art the bright star shining,
And I but the shadowy gleam.

Matter with him? Nuthings a matter with him, Im educating him, Sid sed.

Go on, you dont haff to educate a dog to bark, thats natrual, Puds sed, and I sed, Sure, most peepel haff to educate them not to bark. Im not educating him to bark. Im educating him to add and subtract, Sid sed.

Go on, I sed, and Puds sed, Your dreaming, and Sid sed, O I am, am I, well jest look at this, if you know so much, count 2, Teddy, count 2. And he took a hunk of pretzil out of his pocket and held it in front of Teddys nose and Teddy started to bark and as soon as he had barked twice Sid quick stuck the hunk of pretzil in his mouth, saying, Correck, good dog.

Aw, good nite, wats you giving us, thats some education, me and Puds sed.

Its more than you could do if you was dogs, Sid sed. Now Ill show you how I can subtract, he sed. And he took out another hunk of pretzil saying, 2 from 5, Teddy, quick. And Teddy started to bark again and Sid quick stuck the hunk of pretzil in his mouth just after the 3rd bark, saying, Perfect, good dog. Aw, aw, education, aw, me and Puds sed, and Sid, all rite now jest for that I wont show you how he can divide.

We wouldnt give you a chance, we wouldnt stay and watch him, G wizz, education, good nite, me and Puds sed.

Sun Dials Again

Sun dials have become much the vogue during recent years. The romance of antiquity surrounds them and they have lived over into this age because of their beauty and ancient associations.

In the old days every sun dial carried its message. Here are some which have become axioms: All things do wax and wane. The longest day must end. Make hay while the sun shines. Be true as the dial of the sun. Improve each shining hour. Old Time is still a-flying. Time wasted is existence; used, is life.

An old dial in a garden of Sussex, England, bears upon its plate these four mottoes, one for each season: After Darkness, Light.

Alas! How Swift. I warn whilst I move. So passes Life.

A dial that stood in the Temple gardens in London bore in its day a motto said to have been furnished by Lord Bacon. The noted chancellor was hard at work in his chambers one day when a student dropped in to ask him for a motto that might be written upon his sun dial which was just then being built. Twice did the student make this request, but the abstracted chancellor showed no sign of having heard it. The student for the third time repeated his request. Then Lord Bacon looked up and said: "Sirrah, be done about your business!"

"A thousand thanks, my lord," was the reply. "Nothing could be better than that."

So, upon the dial was placed that scathing admonition: "Sirrah, be done about your business!"

SELF-WASH

Hal Cochran's POEM

"Aw, let me wash my hands and face," said Little Jimmy White. "I'm much too old for you to wash 'em. I kin do it right." So mother sorta hesitates. She has but little hope, yet fin'ly says, "Go right ahead—and use a lot of soap."

Then Jimmy in the wash room goes, and softly shuts the door, so mom can't hear the water he'll have splashin' on the floor. Perhaps his real intention is to do as he is told. The water in the hot side's much too hot. He uses cold.

It's hard to make much soap suds, but he doesn't seem to care. In fact he doesn't seem to know why soap is always there. Mom listens to him splashing, and, from coldness, hears him howl. Then Jimmy promptly turns the white to black upon the towel.

He comes forth for inspection. Is there any place he's missed? In truth, his hands are pretty clean—but only to the wrist. Upon his cheeks, his nose and chin of dirt there's not a speck—but mother takes him back again—to wash his ears and neck.

China's Fine Progress

Kansas City Star

People who think that what the world needs is more government ought to be encouraged by the situation in China, where it appears from the latest reports five separate and fully ordained governments are functioning where there used to be but one. It is a result that seems to dispose of the fears sometimes heard expressed by well wishers of the Chinese, that they were not capable of making popular government work. They have not only made it work but multiplied.

This successful duplication of the powers of government convinces us that China is a fertile field for the application of the most modern theories of political science. No field that we know of is more fertile unless it be the United States. These theories hold that there can be no concern of the individual that is not also the concern of government, and that the more government finds to do the more the individual will have to work to produce revenue for government to spend on doing more things.

If these theories are sound the people of China ought to be happy—at least five times happier than they were when they had only one government to support. When they were in that benighted state they had time to think of their troubles, which probably were mostly imaginary; now they are too busy to be discontented. When they are not working for Gen. Tang Chi-Yan they are under the jurisdiction of Marshal Sun Chuan-Fang; an overnight shifting of the political scenes takes place and then find themselves subject to the authority of Marshal Wu Pei Fu; Wu loses an election in consequence of Samuel Insull's campaign contribution mis-carrying in the mails and it's Chang Tso-Lin's turn to tell them what to do; and about the time they have learned to do it to his satisfaction, in marches the Koominchun army and announces it is the government. It must be a little confusing to the taxpayers, but what government isn't? We get a little mixed up ourselves at times when we try to remember whether it was our county taxes we paid last, or our city, state or federal taxes, and what it is we get in return for each, if anything, and how.

Five governments for a republic as young as China isn't a bad record. It's very encouraging for the future. As they go on the Chinese will find there are many places in their present structure where government can be spread out to cover additional ground and thus make for more duplication. They mustn't think they're perfect yet. The chances are that when they get down to cultivating the field intensively China will be found capable of supporting ten governments, and for every one place where governments now overlap they can be made to overlap in twenty. That is our confident prediction based on our estimate of the political genius of the Chinese and their capacity for imitating the free self governing peoples of the West.

Do They Bite Him?

Boston Transcript

One of our contemporaries reports the Presidential Spokesman as saying that the Adirondack mosquitoes are not biting the President. This is interesting. It causes rejoicing that the President is not having his fishing spoiled by the predatory insects, and it also serves to show that the Spokesman is having a vacation along with the President. No reference to the President's unnamed representative had appeared recently in the dispatches until there came this statement concerning the mosquitoes. There had apparently been ground for the fear that the Spokesman, known by his utterances to millions of his fellow citizens, had been left behind in Washington to make the best of it with a gang of painters at work on the White House and the correspondents either on vacation or up at Paul Smiths, which amounts to much the same thing. But now we know that the Spokesman, like the President, has a vacation. He may even go on the Presidential fishing excursions.

It would have been more satisfactory had the Spokesman been a little more communicative. He must be careful, of course, that in his outgivings he does not assume too much, and does not put himself forward. Necessarily his cannot be the center of the stage. Not for him the spotlight. Still a great many people with kindly feeling for the Spokesman would be glad to know, if such be the case, that, like the President, he has not been the victim of the mosquitoes. Might not the Spokesman venture such assurance as part of the duty he owes to his chief? Otherwise, some one of Mr. Coolidge's political enemies, Senator Pat Harrison, for example, might start a story that the Spokesman had been taken on the President's vacation for the purpose of being fed to the mosquitoes in order that the President himself might fish in comfort.

But if the Spokesman feels that he cannot appropriately speak for himself, even in matters of this kind, it is still a comfort to know that he is included in the vacation party, presumably without loss of pay. We should be glad to be told how his catch compares with that of the President. It would be interesting to know whether the Spokesman has hooked a fish which sets the experts puzzling as to whether it is an ordinary pike or a walled-eyed pike. Such details of the adventures of a Spokesman on vacation would be of more than passing concern. But to expect such confidences may be, for the reasons stated, to expect too much. One who, from the nature of his occupation, is a masked personality is, perhaps, under unvarying obligation not to lay aside the mask.
